NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

Miss T. A. Walker won last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest, the subject of which was W. T. Irvine.

When he was "swimmin' master" at the public bath he worked for money, so when his thin frame slit the water like a knife one was justified in calling him a "revenue cutter." He gives one the impression of being delicate, but as a matter of fact he's still the athlete he has always been. He knows box cars by avocation and hops by affinity. He's pretty busy, and home looks good to him, but he goes clubbing of a Saturday afternoon and sometimes of an evening with a smiling high-domed gentleman who preponderates over him in avoirdupois and exudes funny stories and good humor enough to make his presence a guarantee of good cheer. He's a smooth and gentlemanly fellow who has no notion of how it feels to be peevish, so here's to him and his goodfellowship and may his shadow never grow less.

BONEHEADS

Not by WALT MASON

The cussedness of things we dare to dub "inanimate belies our bald presumption, I am sorry to relate. For instance, that insensate thing we call a carburetor is quite as wayward as the load in ma's perambulator. Big Ben assaults our slumbers when the morning world is dumb with all the malice that's inspired in Tommy's Christmas drum. A spirit of perversity obsesses wood and steel,a deck of cards can beat you even though you stack the deal. The cuckoo clock doth echo through the house to wake the dead when, shoes in hand, at 4 A. M. you tiptoe up to bed. The street car's always just on time if you're a moment late, but should you chance to be on time it's late and you must wait. On every side inanimate conspiracy we note adroitly set and timed you bet to get us humans' goat. But of all perverse inanimates that love man's peace to rend, the most exasperating is the bonehead friend.

"Many men have exploded the old theory that to be a great athlete one must be perfect physically," said George H. Sutton, the handless billiard phenomenon in The Tribune office this morning. "Battling Nelson had a stiff wrist, Mordacai Brown lacked a thumb on his pitching hand, but they reached the top. As to myself, I really don't see how a man handicapped with hands can play billiards at all."

Mr. Sutton verifies his philosophy by his achievements, and anyone who doubts that this handless wonder has anything up his sleeve had better keep out of the betting ring.

Mr. Sutton is not only a billiard expert; he is an engaging gentleman who makes fast friends wherever he goes. He is not sensitive about the accident the world insists upon calling his "misfortune," although he has some fun by simulating reticence. Yesterday a gentleman asked him about it point blank, and assuming an attitude of severe dignity. Mr. Sutton raised his voice to carry to the bystanders and said:

"I was afflicted with an overwhelming curiosity in my youth and as a result I put my hand in a lion's cage to see if it was really true that the lion has a cold nose. The lion tore off my hand and ate it, and I ate the other off myself because I was curious to see how it tasted."

That got a laugh, of course, and after that Mr. Sutton relaxed in a pleasant smile and said he lost his hands on a buzz saw. However, one who knows him says he tells a different story about it every time and never remembers what he told the last man.

After one knows Mr. Sutton well enough to English his changing humors one gets a world of fun out of the vaudeville he carries on during his exhibitions. As he goes on making marvelous exhibition shots with remarkable rapidity his line of talk proceeds something like this:

"All the billiard authorities insist that this close draw is impossible without a wrist movement." (And he proceeds to execute it with ease.)

"Billiards should be popular with women, there are so many squeeze shots. Funny husbands never get jealous when I make that remark. It isn't safe to feel too secure, though." (Here he makes a kiss shot.) "One don't need hands for a kiss."

"Steve Brodie and I achieved great fame using the bridge." (Brodie is the man who jumped off Brooklyn bridge.) Then, as he finishes a 100-point run: "You don't need the table legs to make a run."

* * * *

"Motorcycle Mike" hasn't got anything on Johnnie Williams. Ask Johnnie!

Mr. Williams is a perfectly good little "bike" rider, and withal an adventurous spirit. One day he was passing Otto Gudenschwager's place and Otto was just about to try out a new motorcycle. The power was on, and all was ready.

"Let me try her, Otto," said Mr. Williams, who had of late felt certain internal symptoms of getting the bug. Otto started him off, and then Zip-zip-zip, zip, zip, zzzzzzzzip! The infernal thing, thimblerigged for top speed, whizzed up the street like a thing possessed.

And what did Johnnie do to it?

Nothing. He just held on for dear life, and prayed. He didn't know how to stop it, and anyway he couldn't let go the handlebars. How he negotiated the turn at Twelfth street he can't explain to this day, but he made it. Through panic-stricken dogs and kids and past incensed pedestrians he swept, missing disaster repeatedly by a nickel's worth of time. Then he shot out toward the familiar road to John Stephan's, and as he saw the bluffs loom up before him wild ideas of running into one of them to stop the runaway were born in his brain.

But when Mr. Williams struck the railroad crossing at forty miles an hour Mr. Motorcycle jumped high, wide and handsome, and landed in the road with a bump that threw out the clutch. And straightway Johnnie Williams laid it out by the roadside, and retreated fearfully backward, on tiptoe, until it was out of sight. Then he turned and sprinted for La Crosse. Ask him about it, and he'll say:

"Never again!"

When Charley Williams resigned his position as manager of the La Crosse Gas & Electric company and went to grow up with the country—the country had already grown up, for Denver is "a mile high"—he took with him several bright young men who had been associated with him here. Among them was Ole C. Bangsberg, who began his career as an engineer for the old Central Electric company, and later became chief engineer of the Wisconsin Light and Power company, finally going over with Mr. Williams to the La Crosse Gas & Electric company.

It was in 1910 that Mr. Bangsberg went west to become chief engineer of the Cheyenne (Wyoming) power plant, one of the chain of plants of which Mr. Williams became general manager. Then he went to Los Angeles with the Pacific Light and Power Corporation, whose main plant is at Redondo Beach, and later that company made him manager of their Borel plant, a mountain property located upon a stupendous waterpower site. This company is now engaged in building what will be the largest electricity producing plant in the world, with a transmission line 150 miles in length.

OFFICIAL LEAPS TO DEATH

OAKLAND, Cal., May 17.—Leaping from the fourteenth story of the new city hall, City Clerk H. G. Magill committed suicide in a sensational manner at 10:30 a. m. Hundreds of girls employed in Capwell's department store across the street witnessed the tragedy.

COMMITTEE WILL RAISE SITE FUND

Forty $25 Donations Will Secure Thriving Manufacturing Industry for the City

PASS SUBSCRIPTION MONDAY

Only $1,000 to Be Raised by South Side Business Men; Remainder Is Subscribed

WANTED—Forty south side merchants and business men who are willing to donate $25 each toward a fund with which to buy a site for the $20,000 factory to be erected for the Hans Motor Equipment company by the Industrial association.

Three thousand dollars have already been subscribed toward the $4,000 site fund of which $2,000 has been raised by north side merchants and $1,000 by merchants and jobbers on the south side. A strenuous attempt to raise the remaining $1,000 will be made on the south side by the board of trade committee consisting of John C. Burns, W. F. Goodrich, George Linker and Secretary John Utermoehl, Monday morning. This was the decision of the board of directors at a meeting held at the La Crosse club yesterday at which ways and means of keeping in La Crosse the Hans Motor Equipment company, one of the most thriving industries in the city, were discussed.

Stock Issue Oversubscribed

The $20,000 preferred stock issue has been oversubscribed and the $20,000 for the building of the new factory is on hand so all that remains to hinder the immediate erection of the new factory is the $1,000 toward the site fund which the committee expects to raise Monday.

The Hans company employes about sixty skilled laborers and when it is able to expand in its new quarters it will employ at least 100 men. They are the best paid class of workers in the city and for the most part family men . The board of trade feels that the benefits accruing to the south side in the location of an industry of this magnitude are substantially larger than the small investment asked of the business men in half the factory site purchase.

South Side Benefits

It is argued that the trade which will naturally be shared by the south side merchants will more than repay within one year the small outlay necessary to prevent the factory seeing accommodation in another city. South side merchants who subscribe to the site fund are not only assisting in the location of the factory in this city, but they are adding materially to the bond of friendship with the north side. The board of trade committee further asserts that it is absoluely necessary that he money be raised or La Crosse will lose one of its best growing industries.

Home Made Week Meeting

At the meeting of the Home Made Week committee yesterday it was decided to call a meeting of the manufacturers of the city to confer over the allotment of space in the Home Made Week exhibition which will be held in the merchants' windows the last week of this month. The meeting will be held in the municipal court chamber at the city hall Monday evening. The committee on space allotment will be present.

BOAT DISASTER CLUE?

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 17.—An open boat, fully equipped with oars and with a flask of water in her lockers, was picked up today by fishermen off Kenosha, Wis. The boat bore the name of the steamer John M. Truby, which does not appear in the marine register. Whether the finding of the boat indicates a marine disaster is impossible to say.

CAN'T FIND PROBER

CHICAGO, May 17.—Inability to locate Senator Daley of Peoria, one of the members of the Illinois senate committee probing charges against Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, made it probable that the proposed session of the committee today would go over until Monday, according to Samuel Ettleson, chairman of the committee.

CHORUS GIRL'S DAD FOILED BY ELOPERS

CHICAGO, May 17.—Reversing the usual order of things in chorus girl elopements, the father of Eleanor Mitchell, member of the ballet of the Chicago Grand Opera company, objected to her marriage to Raymond H. Woods, member of a wealthy Hyde family, and told young Raymond so in emphatic language.

"We should worry about your dad," said young Woods, just out of high school, and he cranked up his father's big touring car.

Mitchell, Sr., did not own a touring car but he had a motorcycle that he used to save car fare. He started in pursuit, but the elopers swung around corners, whizzed up and down boulevards and kept him on the run until his gasoline gave out.

When Mitchell, Sr., walked into the parsonage of Rev. Charles Bayard, the pastor had just finished tying the knot.

Male Chorus Will Give Concert At German Methodist Convention

One hundred and twenty delegates are expected to attend the convention of the Epworth league societies and the Sunday schools of the Galena district of the German Methodist church which will open in the German Methodist church, Seventh and Ferry streets, Monday evening.

Dr. F. E. Hirsch of St. Paul and Dr. A. J. Bucher, Cincinnati, will be the principal speakers. The convention will last a full week, coming to an end next Sunday.

The chief social feature of the convention will be a big concert given by a male chorus of thirty-six voices the evening of the first day of the convention. The concert will be given in the German M. E. church at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

The chorus will be assisted by Miss Harriet Oltman, soprano; Paul T. Schulze, bass; Charles C. Baker, entertainer; Mrs. Paul Schulze, accompanist, and Prof. James R. Kerr, director.

The program to be given is as follows:

GERMAN ARCTIC EXPLORERS DEAD

Four of Schroeder-Stranz Party Known to Be Dead and Leader Is Missing

CHRISTIANA, May 17.—Four members of the German Arctic exploration expedition under Lieutenant Schroeder-Stranz are known to be dead and Schroeder-Stranz is missing, according to information coming from Widji Bay, the farthest north point of Spitzbergen.

Deltmers and Moeser, two members of the party, were drowned, Eberhard was frozen to death and Stave died of sickness, according to a wireless report today to Christiana from the commander of the Norwegian relief party that went out to hunt for the Germans.

The Schroeder-Stranz expedition started out last June, on the Herzog-Ernst, commanded by Captain Ritscher. In August the liner Victoria Louise, cruising in northern waters with passengers, met the Herzog-Ernst and supplied her with provisions. Nothing more was heard of the explorers until Captain Ritscher after a hard overland journey, reached Advent bay alone and reported that disaster had overtaken the party. The Norwegian relief expedition then set out.

NEWSPAPERMEN AT TARIFF HEARINGS

Democrats Stung by the Taunts of Star Chamber Methods Invite Journalists

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Under invitation from the democratic members of the senate finance committee, taunted with "star chamber methods" by the republicans in the debates of the past week, newspapermen were today admitted to the hearings on the several tariff schedules which are being conducted by these democrats.

Nor ecord of the statements made by the manufacturers before these three sub-committees of the majority party are kept. Each witness comes to plead for the high tariff on the particular item in which he is interested, and is given a chance to answer questions concerning it. The democrats contend that this method saves time and gives the committee members a good working knowledge of the claims of the manufacturers, while excluding political speech-making and unnecessary disputes between majority and minority committeemen.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, and Senator Williams, the chief tariff expert on the majority side, believes that the Wilson-Underwood bill can be taken through the committee stage in from two to three weeks.

LA CROSSE EXPRESSES ITS APPRECIATION OF FRANK HIXON'S GIFT

BRYAN COMPLETES REPLY TO JAPAN

Will Be Sent to Tokio Through Baron Chinda as Soon as Approved by Wilson

ADOPTS CONCILIATORY LANGUAGE

Note Alleged to Explain that Federal Government Has Done All in Its Power to Stop Law

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Secretary Bryan's reply to Japan's diplomatic protest against the California anti-alien land owning bill was tentatively completed today. It may be transmitted through Ambassador Chinda today, depending on President Wilson's study of its text. It was stated on high authority that the note adopts the most conciliatory language in discussing the issue between the two nations. The note itself was in part the work of John Bassett Moore, state department counsellor, and one of the foremost authorities on international law in the country.

Publicity of the note, as well as of the original protest by Japan, is not planned by the administration at this particular time. Ambassador Chinda will be consulted in this regard, but it is probable that he will be given time to confer with Tokio before the text of any of the diplomatic interchanges would be given to the press.

From authoritative sources it was said today that the administration's reply would set out with earnestness the exhaustive steps taken by the federal government in negotiations with California in behalf of Japan. It was said that the note would indirectly give notice that this government had exhausted every available effort to prevent the passage of the California law and that by such action the government had gone as far as it could in response to the Japanese protest.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 17.—It was announced at the governor's office today that Governor Johnson would not sign the Webb anti-alien land owning bill for several days. It is reported the executive wishes to give the federal administration every opportunity to complete its diplomatic exchanges with Japan before taking action.

JURY BLAMES MRS. DIETZ

CHICAGO, May 17.—Mrs. Augusta Dietz, held responsible by the coroner's jury for the murder of her husband, George Dietz, a wealthy maker of women's clothes, went to the office of State's Attorney Hoyne today for a conference before her arraignment at the preliminary hearing on the charge of murder.

The widow spent the night at her home under $10,000 bail. She heard the reading of the verdict late yesterday, charging "that she is directly responsible for his death, or that she has guilty knowledge of his death," without a trace of emotion.

CHIEF WITNESS KILLED?

DAVENPORT, Ia., May 17.—Foul play is supposed to be behin d the death of Frank Harding, of Donahue, a small town near here, whose body was found floating in the Mississippi river, today. In his pocket was a subpoena to appear in the case against John Sambo, charged with running a free love colony. Harding was the principal witness against Sambo and the police found wounds on the back of his head.

DONOR SPEAKS AT DEDICATION OF NEW ANNEX

Says Increased Attendance at High School Will Be Best Token of Thanks

MAKES FOR GOOD CITIZENSHIP

CROWD FILLS THE AUDITORIUM

Prof. Crawshaw's Speech Reveals True Significance of Magnificent Donation

An audience which packed the large auditorium to overflowing, hundreds being compelled to stand in the aisles and corridors, attended the dedication of the Hixon High School Manual Arts Annex last night at the high school building. In spite of the threatening weather, which turned to a downpour of rain before the program was well begun, the crowd began to arrive early and until no more could gain entrance they continued to come.

The early visitors made a trip of inspection to the new building which is now ready for occupancy and those who arrived late made the tour after the speaking which lasted but little more than an hour.

Three stands of American Beauties decorated the stage upon which were seated the speakers, members of the school board and high school faculty, and the man to whom the honors of the meeting were given—Mr. Frank P. Hixon, through whose philanthropy broad development of the manual arts branch of education becomes possible in La Crosse.

Orchestra Opens Program

The program opened with two selections by the high school orchestra under the leadership of Miss Martha Rollins. The music was the touch necessary to complete the program.

L. P. Benezet, superintendent of schools, acted as chairman and introduced the speakers. Ori J. Sorensen, mayor of La Crosse, opened his speech with the statement that it has been his privilege to visit many institutions devoted to educational purposes and many especially equipped for manual training, but that he had never seen a building or equipment that excelled or even equalled that now owned by La Crosse.

"More than thirty per cent of all school children," he said, "are compelled to help support the family. These children, when they leave the school seek employhment in factories, shops and stores. Some learn trades and others become common laborers. To this class manual training becomes an advantage of inestimable value.

Escape Life of Slavery

"Owing to the increasing competition in the business world the factories have not the time to teach boys trades. A two years' course in manual training will allow them to escape a life of industrial slavery."

Turning to Mr. Hixon, who was seated at the right of the stage Mr. Sorensen then said:

"On behalf of the citizens of La Crosse I wish to thank you for what you have done for the city and in the same manner on the behalf of the parents and children of the present and the future. We wish and hope that you may live long to see the fruits of your generosity."

That the sentiment touched a responsive chord in the hearts of the vast audience was amply proven by the roar of applause that instantaneously greeted the mayor's final statement.

greeted the mayor's final statement.

William Luening, president of the board of education, followed Mr Sorensen with a brief history of the development of the high school in this city and especially the manual training department. He told how Mr. Hixon's gift had fulfilled the hopes of the board when the cramped finances of the city made it impossible.

Called Fad Nine Years Ago

"Manual training was called a fad nine years ago," he said, "and the board was laughed at when we wanted a building for teaching this branch of study. Now it is recognized as a necessity. We were again laughed at when we wanted a high school building large enough to seat and accommodate eight or nine hundred students. The people and the common council wanted to know what we would do with the empty rooms. But

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

The escape of Eliza stirs our sympathy as no ordinary melodrama ever can, and the fortunes of Uncle Tom keep us alert and excited. And the production which Kibble & Martin will bring to our city will be the same that has been so favorably received in New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis and all large cities.

An event looked forward to with more than ordinary interest theatrically is the coming of Kibble & Martin's world greatest revival of Harriet Beecher Stowe's lovable story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Kibble & Martin's reputation as a promoter of big productions is well known by theater goers, but few are aware that the coming event is one of the most gigantic and elaborate that has ever been attempted in America. Not only does Mr. Martin promise to bring a company of over fifty people, but a carload of scenery, ponies, horses and bloodhounds in the piece. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will hold the boards at the La Crosse theater tonight.

PRINCE OF PILSEN.

Society, always on the qui vive when a genuine Henry W. Savage production is announced to visit La Crosse, is preparing itself to accord "The Prince of Pilsen" the best of receptions. Always the favorite among the lighter of the musicworks that are brought to the La Crosse theater, this tuneful musical comedy on this, its third visit here, will be eagerly accepted once more. Monday the sale of seats and boxes will commence from the box office of the La Crosse theater at 9 o'clock, and it is confidently expected that all previous sales for the brilliant melodic conceit will be excelled. Mr. Savage promises a cast of principals of surprising merit, and a chorus of remarkable beauty. None of the old cast remain, except "Jess" Dandy, the Hans Wagner, and the little Delmore woman, who plays the natty bell-boy, Jimmie. The company includes a quartette of fine voices, composed of Mary Murray, Lottie Kendall, Bernard Ferguson and Fred Lyon. A brilliant interpretation of the Pixley-Luders score and book may be expected. "The Prince of Pilsen" special orchestra will be a feature.

DUEL FATAL TO BOTH PRINCIPALS

RACINE, Wis., May 17.—Nick Iannuzzi, 34 years old, died at a hospital this morning as a result of a stiletto and revolver duel last night with Joe Filicetti, who the former declared had "undermined" him for a position as gateman with a railroad company.

Iannuzzi attaced the gateman with a revolver, fatally wounding him. The latter, as he fell, plunged a stiletto into his countryman's body, the wound causing Iannuzzi's death early today.

ALASKA MOVIES $1

MARINETTE, Wis., May 17.—A new Klondike has been discovered. A local "movie man" has a letter from his brother who runs a picture show in a mining camp 300 miles from a railroad, telling of "movies" at a dollar a throw, a change of film every six weeks when the dog team arrives from the south with camp supplies.

Historic Relic in English Church.

The church of the little village of Iken, Suffolk, England, possesses what is probably the rarest alms dish to be found in England. Inlaid in the center of the woodwork is a piece of the bell metal which was saved from the great fire at York Minster, when the famous bell there was entirely destroyed some years ago.

BISHOP DOANE IS DEAD

DEAN OF HOUSE OF BISHOPS OF THE CHURCH DIES SUDDENLY IN HOTEL IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 17.—Right Rev. William Croswell Doane, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Albany and dean of the house of bishops of that church, died suddenly early in his apartments at the Manhattan hotel. He came to this city on Tuesday and although he was ill it was not believed that his condition was serious. He rapidly became worse, however, and last night his physician, Dr. E. S. Hart, notified the church authorities that the bishop was dying. He sank rapidly, and the end came just before 1:00 o'clock. The body will be taken to Albany this afternoon, where the funeral will be held in All Saints cathedral which was built through the bishop's efforts.

Bishop Doane was born in Boston, March 2, 1832. His was a church family, his father having been George Washington Doane, second bishop of New Jersey.

BAD LUCK PURSUES MILWAUKEE FIREMEN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 17.—Fighting fire in Milwaukee is more hazardous than in any other city in the United States, Chief Clancy believes. He tabulated figures Friday showing that thirty-four men was the toll of blazes in Milwaukee in the last fifteen years. The percentage is greater even than in Pittsburg, which more nearly resembles Milwaukee in its industries than any other American city.

Just evil luck is ascribed for the loss. There are only a few more than 500 firemen in Milwaukee and the percentage of loss is great. Basement fires, Chief Clancy said, have been the most dangerous.

LAKE BATH FOR BALKY FRESHMEN

MADISON, Wis., May 17.—The student conference decided last night that a strong stand would be taken to prevent hazing, and to compel the freshmen to wear the green cap, and in case of refusal, and conviction by the student court, the student will be deprived of all opportunity to participate in university activities for a year. In addition a lake bath may be provided for balky students, who are slow in obeying orders of the court.

DOUBLE K. O. ENDS BOUT

ABE SLOPSKY AND BOB TOOKE IN 3 ROUND ROW FEATURE MAJESTIC AMATEUR NIGHT

Abe Slopsky and Bob Tooke in a three round boxing match featured the amateur contest held last night at the close of the performance of Rube Welch and Kitty Francis. The boys copped second prize after a hard battle which ended in a double knockout, both taking the count of ten. In the first round Tooke led off with several sharp left jabs to the jaw, with Slopsky on the defensive. The round was Tooke's. Slopsky turned on the steam in the second displaying ability as a mixer, slugging with both mits. Abe's round. Both scrappers mixed it for a go as you please in the third, until the double knockout.

John Turner sang "Darling I am Growing Old," in a clear pathetic voice, winning the sympathy of the audience in a way seldom to be seen. He won first prize.

The Misses Mourning and Schwartz put on their Yama Yama song and dance, calling forth the attention that they always receive with their original and clever acting. Miss Martell and the Misses Ness were well received with their Swing song. The effect of this act was aided by swings on the stage which were pushed by boys.

Katherine Byron, the popular member of the Rube Welch company, moved the large audience into tears with a recitation entitled, "Toots, my mutt dog." A little yellow dog figured in the piece, while Miss Byron, who is the youngest member of the company, told the story of her pet's life.

Several other interesting numbers went to make up one of the most interesting programs ever seen on the Majestic platform. The performance ended with a free for all rag dance in which the audience was invited to participate.

ONE EDITOR SUES OTHER FOR LIBEL

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17.—William E. Johnson, editor of a temperance paper published at Westerville, Ohio, has brought suit in the local county circuit court for $50,000 damages against Ulysses G. Robinson of St. Louis, editor of another prohibition organ. Johnson charged that Robinson published libelous articles about him and circulated copies at the prohibition national conference held in Indianapolis last January. For this reason the suit was brought here.

SUSPEND ADVANCES

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Proposed advances by the Southern Pacific on oranges in car load lots from fifty cents to $1.30 a ton from Folsom, Cal., to Brighton, Cal., were today suspended until September 18 by the interstate commerce commission.

ICE BREAKS UP IN DULUTH HARBOR

DULUTH, Minn., May 17.—Ice conditions here yesterday had improved so that steamers made headway without great difficulty. A west wind was scattering the chunks, and it was predicted that the present hindrance to navigation would be blown out into the lake before night.

Boats did not break through the floes Thursday without injury. The steamers Joseph Block and Filbert broke their wheels.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Polly Got Two Dishes Of Ice Cream.

The Lady Asked Polly to Have More.

"THERE are more ways of getting what you want than one," daddy said to Jack and Evelyn.

"Little Polly was a very obedient child, but she did love ice cream, especially strawberry ice cream.

"So when she was asked to Kitty Blossom's birthday party Polly's mamma told her she must be very careful to behave nicely.

"'And when they give you something to eat, eat slowly. Don't grab for anything, and, above all, don't ask for more when you have had one saucer of ice cream,' said her mother.

"Polly promised. It was her first party, and she was a little shy, so she did not care, although she was not chosen very often in the little games which the children played.

"The nicest part of the party was a moving picture show given right in the hall of the little girl who was having the party. Some of the pictures were very, very funny, and Polly laughed over them a great deal.

"After the moving pictures the children chose partners and marched about the rooms while some one played jolly music on the piano.

"Besides all these amusements, there was a phonograph, and Polly enjoyed very much a jolly piece in which a dog barked, a rooster crowed, pigeons cooed, a cow mooed, a horse whinnied, a cat meowed, a grasshopper squeaked, a cricket chirped, an owl hooted, and many other creatures to be heard about a farm made their funny kind of noises. And while the children were laughing at this a little silver bell tinkled, and that was to tell them that it was time for supper.

"Polly remembered what her mother had told her and ate slowly and did not grab for anything. There was no need to do so, for every plate was heaped with goodies.

"But when it came time for ice cream Polly's eyes almost popped out of her head, for they had strawberry ice cream, and it came to the table shaped like strawberries, a huge berry on a plate for each child.

"I'm afraid Polly ate hers faster than her mother would have liked. The mother of the child who was giving the party, seeing Polly's empty plate, said:

"'Polly, won't you have some more ice cream?'

"It was a hard moment for Polly, but she said very low so that she could not be heard, 'Thank you; not any more.'

"And the lady, not hearing what she said, told the waiter to give Polly some more. So, as Polly afterward told her mother, it would have been rude not to eat it."

PREACH A SERMON FROM THIS TEXT

Today The Tribune received the following on a postcard:

"Dear Editor:
"People are so afraid of going to hell; I go through there when I go to heaven."

What does the writer mean? Of course the paragraph may be the vaporings of a disordered mind—we so readily think of disordered minds when men talk of religious subjects—but does it not present a text for a sermon? Read it, and attempt to follow the philosophy of the writer. Then make it the text for a sermon. A thousand could be written upon it.

THE BACKBONE OF AMERICA

"In many ways I have found that the Harvard aristocrats with whom I have come in contact are distinctly inferior to the foremen, conductors and other workers with which I have been thrown. * * * * * The majority of men whom I have met as fellow laborers certainly have filled me with a great enthusiasm for the future of America."

So says Edmund Trowbridge Stedman, a grandson of Longfellow, and a wage earner. Mr. Stedman is only repeating the experience of many other men who have realized that social standing does not spell worth.

In place of the European aristocracy of birth we have in this country the far more intolerable pretentions of plutocracy. Plain Bill Jones succeeds in business and acquires a more or less generous amount of stocks and bonds and ready cash; Bill himself never departs from the wholesome philosophy that has made him successful; he judges men and women for what they are, not for what they have or seem to have. But often his wife and children become the worst imaginable snobs. The very fact that they have come up from lowly origins inspires them with contempt for all left in honest poverty. Hence we hear a lot about "social inferiors" and "the lower classes" from those whose fathers and grandfathers were proud to be plain workingmen.

Yet, as young Stedman, a graduate of Harvard and the grandson of a distinguished poet, points out, the affected superiority of the plutocrats is a myth. In information, in thinking power, in all the essentials of culture, including that hall mark of true aristocracy—courtesy and kindness to fellowmen—the average wage earner is the equal and frequently the superior of the average plutocrat. Perhaps that is why nowadays we do not hold up the rich man to our children as an ideal the way we once did.

JAPS NOT MORE CORDIAL THAN IS CALIFORNIA

If governments have memories, Japan's own former attitude toward foreigners must be embarrassing, for nowhere can one find the story of a nation more exclusive than was Japan as late as our civil war period.

And even when, about 1870, Japan awoke to the advantages that might accrue to her through employment of other civilizations, the Mikado's people maintained a reserve that today would be characterized as inhospitable. In this connection we have recourse to a recent article by Dr. William Elliott Griffis, who at the latter date went to Japan, and who speaks thus of Japan's treatment of the first foreigners invited to that country for its benefit:

"In the period of 1870 to 1900, when about five thousand foreign men and women were invited to Japan to organize her educational, financial, postal, military, railway and other systems, the Japanese intended to keep all power in their own hands, as is shown by the popular term applied to these aliens. They were called 'Yatoi,' meaning a day laborer, or person hired temporarily."

LIVING ONE HUNDRED YEARS

Thomas Sullivan of Williams Bay, this state, is counted a very lucky man. He got his start in life before there was a known microbe in existence and he is now 112 years of age. He says he is not 112 years old but 112 years young and he certainly acts like it. This is Mr. Sullvan's program:

6 a. m.—Arises, dresses and prepares for morning jaunt.

7 a. m.—Takes daily plunge summer and winter and stays in the water several minutes.

8 a. m.—Returns home and eats a hearty breakfast.

9 a. m.—Begins his daily work as fisherman and farmer.

7 p. m.—Retires.

This young old man doesn't take much stock in what he terms "newfangled germs." When he came to this country eighty years ago, people were so busy hewing out homesteads for themselves that they didn't have time to discover microbes; therefore, so far as they were concerned, there were no microbes.

Sullivan claims that he has lived long because he has taken a cold plunge every morning without fail, as far back as he can remember. Every old man has some fad of this kind, but the secret of his longevity is the fact that he, in his young manhood, escaped most of the influences which surround men of today. He was not around the neighborhood turkey trotting or consuming cocktails that would eat the bottom out of a copper stewpan when he should have been asleep. He has gone to bed at 7 p. m. all his life, and his program has run like clockwork. Making a success of life lies largely in the point of view and Grandsire Sullivan's point of view seems to be fairly successful, if counted by calendar years.

"JIM" HILL SPANKS NAUGHTY WALL STREET

In declaring that Wall street is alone in its fight against tariff reduction, "Jim" Hill implies on his own part a friendly attitude toward tariff revision downward. It is reassuring to see the big men of the west take this stand. Mr. Hill's word is a mountain of influence among farmers who may have been bluffed by the free-wool bugaboo.

And Mr. Hill says Wall street is "only a counter over which the people of the country are supposed to trade," and that therefore "it can't live upon itself." Therefore, he concludes that the people "demand tariff revision, and if the senate blocks them they will change the complexion of the senate."

All of which is as sure as you're alive.

Olivet, Michigan professor of physiogomy, says every person's profession is denoted in the face. We'll bet without consulting the cash register that the Olivet highbrow can't tell the difference between a manicure lady and a palmist.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Portly Man

I tell you when a feller's fat
His friends all have a notion that
They've got a call to criticise;
They pull a very ghastly sigh
And say he's surely goin' to die
If he don't take some exercise.

They tell him he is gainin' fast,
He's bigger much this week than last,
And all that sore of cheering news.
They tell him he's a lazy lout
And on his way to suffer gout,
So personal are all their views.

In theaters the folks behind
Tell him he's got an awful rind
To spoil their chance to see the show.
When on the car he's got the sand
To take a seat while women stand,
They label him the "hog," you know.

And when he goes to buy a suit,
The tailor says: "You big galoot,
You'll pay just twice what others pay."
When he walks by, folks cry aloud:
"Oh, my, there goes an awful crowd,
Must be some side show here today."

But still, when all is said and done,
No matter if he weighs a ton,
No vain regrets will he allow.
He thinks that every skinny cuss
Is knockin' cause he's envious.
That fat man's happy, anyhow.

One on Two Swaggers

Mark Twain was in a restaurant one day and found himself next to two young men who were putting on a great many airs and ordering the waiters about in a most impressive fashion. One of them gave an order and told the waiter to inform the cook whom it was for.

"Yes," said the other, "better tell him my name, too, so as to make certain of its being all right."

Mark who hated swagger, called the waiter and said in a loud voice: "Bring me a dozen oysters, and whisper my name to each one of them."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Imortal When in New Pants

Gordon, 7 years old, was playing bandit, and for some time had been staggering around as if badly wounded by the imaginary bullets of his playmates. A neighbor who had been watching the game remarked:

"Gordon, why don't you fall down some time?"

"Oh," Gordon replied, "I would have been dead long ago if I had had on my old pants."—Everybody's Magazine.

On the Lookout

The little boy was waiting at the gate when the preacher rode up. "Are you Brother Jones?" the little boy asked.

"Yes, my little man. Are you glad to see me?"

"You bet I am! Mamma'll cut the cake now."—Judge.

Dangerously Ambiguous

"Oh, my!" she exclaimed impatiently, "we'll be sure to miss the first act. We've been waiting a good many minutes for that mother of mine."

"Hours, I should say," he replied, rather tartly.

"Ours?" she cried joyfully. "Oh, George, this is so sudden!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

In the Jungle

In the Fifth avenue window of a certain dealer in phonographs there is a sign advertising the merits of music in general and of the dealer's machines in particular. It begins:

"Music hath charms to sooth the savage beast." (sic).

That statement challenges attention. You immediately think of the yowling cat in the back yard, and an investment in a talking machine seems to be a household necessity—as much so as fly screens. That and no more seems a nice little advertisement for music. But read the next line:

"Come in. We have just what is best for your taste."

With and at a Will

A drill sergeant was drilling the recruit squad in the use of the rifle. Everything went smoothly until blank cartridges were distributed. The recruits were instructed to load their pieces and stand at the "ready," and then the sergeant gave the command:

"Fire at will!"

Private Dunn was puzzled. He lowered his gun.

"Which one is Will?" he asked.

A Matter of Convenience

"Well, my little man, what can I do for you" asked the grocer as he rubbed his hands genially together.

"Please, sir, mother says these matches she bought this morning ain't no good."

"No good!" exclaimed the grocer, now looking almost as much worried as the boy. "What's the matter with them? This is the first complaint I've had."

"Can't help that,' said the small boy. "Mother says they ain't no good."

"Nonsense!" replied the grocer. Then, taking a match from one of the boxes, he gave it a smart rub, which ignited it immediately, and turned to the boy again. "Well," he inquired, 'what have you got to say now?"

The small complainant returned the disdainful look, undaunted.

"That's orl right, guv'nor," he remarked, "but d'you fink my muvver's coming 'ere to strike matches on your boot every time she wants a light?"

Congressman Sisson bitterly opposes all expenditures to increase the efficiency of the army and navy. And now he wants war with Japan.

SAYS PROGRESSIVES WILL NOT GO BACK

William H. Hinebaugh.

Representative William H. Hinebaugh, one of the Bull Moose congressmen from Illinois, says all this talk from Republicans about the Bull Moosers going back to the G. O. P. is nonsense. He says the standpat element in the Republican party is in control and will not eliminate itself.

"It is not for a moment to be presumed," says Hinebaugh, "that the old-time standpat men who believe their position is the only correct one will eliminate themselves in a convention called and controlled by themselves."

The Path of Fame

"When I went to Washington," said the congressman who was defeated, "the people of Plunkville gathered and strewed roses in my path."

"And when you returned as a lame duck?"

"They strewed banana peelings and cactus."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FACE DISGRACEFUL WITH RASH

Large Scabs Would Form, Fester and Break. Itching and Burning. Kept from Sleeping. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—"My trouble of skin disease started merely as a rash on my face and neck, but it grew and kept getting worse until large scabs would form, fester and break. This was just on the one side of my face, but it soon scattered to the other side. I suffered a great deal especially at night on account of its itching and burning. I would scratch it and of course that irritated it very much. This rash was on my face for about two years sometimes breaking out lots worse and forming larger sores. It kept me from sleeping day or night for a couple of months. My face looked disgraceful, and I was almost ashamed to be seen by my friends.

"A friend asked me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I would bathe my face with hot water and a lot of Cuticura Soap, then I would put on the Cuticura Ointment. In less than two days' time, the soreness and inflammation had almost entirely disappeared, and in four weeks' time you could not see any of the rash. Now my face is without a spot of any kind. I also use them for my scalp and hair. They cured me completely." (Signed) Miss Pansy Hutchins, Feb. 6, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

WINGS OF FAME

By ELLA RANDALL PEARCE
Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Carlotta walked toward the elevator shaft of the great office building with a slip of yellow paper held gingerly in one hand. Her glance was rueful; her step was slow. She had just parted with her last two dollars and received in return this yellow slip printed with about a dozen names of business firms that might require her services.

In fancy the rasping tones of the little black-bearded man who presided over the office she had just left came to her again, ticking off an inventory of her personal stock. Carlotta had applied for work as a commercial art model.

"No good for costume—too short; young—but features sharp; say, you want to brighten up a bit—snap; that's what they all want! For lingerie—you're pretty thin, ain't you? Turn your head around—there. Yes, good profile; good hair—might do for hats."

So the list of names Carlotta held offered her the only possible means she knew of by which she could stave off the grim specter, Want. And the black-bearded man had advised her to brighten up!

"Well," reflected Carlotta, as she tucked the list into her handbag and descended to the sunlighted street, "It's better than nothing; and that's what I found in the other places. And I don't want to go back, anyway. It's a hard life, and nothing in it for me!"

That was what one year behind the footlights had taught Carlotta. She had come to the city from her home in a remote but thriving little town, where she had won agreeable and inspiring encomiums by her work in amateur theatricals and church concerts. She had come to conquer, full of faith in herself and abounding enthusiasm. One year on the road and a short season of walking about the city from one theatrical agent to another, searching in vain for a desirable engagement for the coming season, had brought the seeker of fame and fortune to the end of her rainbow hopes, the relinquishment of her dreams and the realization of many bitter facts.

"If I really had the gift, I would fight on," Carlotta had told herself. "But I must find something to do. I cannot go back!"

There was no parents' home waiting for her in Berwick, only an aunt whom she had estranged by reason of her flight, some friends who would pity her because of her defeat, and Jerry! Carlotta flushed hotly every time she recalled that last interview—Jerry Wardell's protests and her own assured persistence; his growing anger and her mocking defiance. Oh, she would never let him know, now!

The few letters she had sent to her home town during her absence had been highly colored accounts of her travels and experiences. Latterly, she had ceased to write.

"If Jerry could see me now!" Carlotta walked up the busy thoroughfare, with the morning sunlight mercilessly betraying the shiny surfaces of her worn serge suit and the shabbiness of her faded hat. "And if he knew that I am even hungry, and that if I don't find work today I can't pay my rent—I, who was to be famous when Berwick next heard of me!"

Thoughts of Jerry Wardell had intruded themselves very persistently of late. Carlotta sometimes wondered why he had seemed of so little importance one year ago. Had the men she had since met taught her the real worth of the man she had deserted? What was the state of Jerry's feelings for her now? Perhaps he had forgotten—and then Carlotta's heart ached with a dull, torturing pain that made her look more wistful and woe-begone than ever.

From one door to another, following the names listed on her yellow slip, Carlotta trudged that day, while the light of hope burned lower and lower. It was at the last place she called that desperation nerved her to unusual action.

"Wait—before you decide! You cannot judge—let me show you."

She tossed off her shabby hat and caught up a sample shape fluffy with feathers. Her cheeks were flushed and her eyes sparkling. Over her really splendid hair of coppery brown the white plume curled gracefully. "And this!" A black poke bonnet wreathed in pink roses was perched jauntily on the girl's head. The manager of the wholesale house of Tripp & Co. looked interested. The poke bonnet was replaced by a smart rolling sailor that had two sharp wings soaring above the crown. No one could have worn that special hat more becomingly than Carlotta.

"That's our new model; we expect to make a hit with it," said the manager. "Why, yes; we might photograph you for our catalogue. Getting it out now. Say, what's your name? Carlotta Best—there's a name for the hat—the Carlotta. You're engaged."

Thus it chanced that in the sprng catalogue of Tripp & Co. there was one full page given to their new outing hat, "The Carlotta," and the face of Miss Best was presented to five different views.

In due time the spring catalogue of Tripp & Co. found its way to various prospective customers throughout the country, and one coppy reached the leading apparel store of Berwick, where young Mr. Jerry Wardell, late of the stock room, had been promoted to the position of assistant buyer.

"Here's a good model," he began; then stood with staring eyes fixed on the photograph of a grl's face tilted saucily under the brim of a rolling sailor hat with outspread wings. "The Carlotta," he repeated slowly. Why, of course, that was just the way she had looked at him the last time he saw her. Then, he glanced at the other pictures—Carlotta in profile, full face, looking up and looking down. Not a shadow of doubt. Each one was an excellent likeness, and the name confirmed the belief.

The firm of Tripp & Co. received an order from the leading apparel store in Berwick; they also received a personal letter from the assistant buyer, Mr. Jerry Wardell. At that time, Miss Best was learning the trade of millinery.

Two days later, as Carlotta was returning home from work, a man pushed his way through the crowd, and fell into step beside her. At her startled cry of "Jerry!" he smilingly crooked his arm around her arm and guided her forward.

"I've been looking for you, Carlotta. Why didn't you let me know you were in hard luck?"

"I'm not!" she protested "I'm—I'm—"

"Yes; I know all about it. And I can imagine what you went through—first. This isn't what you left Berwick for, Carlotta."

She averted her head, and the tears sprang readily to her eyes.

"There! I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. But I've been thinking a lot about you—and as soon as I knew what you were doing, I could guess the rest."

The warm color was softly sweeping into the girl's downcast face; her heart was beginning to sing for joy; the spoken words of her companion sounded like sweet music to her. There was wonderful comfort, too, in the touch of that strong protecting arm.

"And you wouldn't let me know!" Young Wardell looked down at her again, and his face brightened. "Well, Carlotta, a year and a half's a long time, and I don't know just how you feel about it, but I've come from Berwick just to ask you one question. Will you go back with me?"

It was because of Carlotta's answer then that the assistant buyer for the leading apparel store in Berwick took a hat from a case that arrived a few days later, and gently stroked the snowy, pointed wings of Tripp & Co.'s most popular model of the season.

"The Carlotta!" The young man looked happily reflective. "Well, a little bit of fame was worth a whole lot that time. I'll send this up to the house."

Then he rang for a messenger, carefully wrapped up the white-winged sailor hat, and addressed the package to Mrs. Jerry Wardell.

Discouraged Fireflies.

During a pause of a brilliant display of fireworks on of the circle of friends commented upon the conspicuous absence of the innumerable fireflies that had been noticed several evenings previously. The query as to what had become of them all was promptly answered by my tiny boy of five summers, who remarked: "I guess they must be discouraged."—Chicago Tribune.

As to Modesty.

Modesty didn't make dress. Dress made modesty. Only it should be borne in mind that once modesty has developed the conventions cannot be suddenly and radically violated without social degradation. Modesty isn't something that doesn't matter. It does matter.—Exchange.

Not Unreasonable.

EDITOR SHOOTS MAYOR

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 17.—That Mayor Windsor of Mount Auburn, was shot yesterday by Fay Slate, editor of the Mount Auburn Tribune, after he had downed the editor in a rough and tumble fight in the railway station, was the version given the story today by Conductor Beard, of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton. The mayor was in a critical condition today. There was little hope of his recovery.

ROUGH GANG OF HOBOES CAPTURED

Ransack Grocery Counter when Proprietor Turns Back; Man Hit with a Crutch

Four hoboes who had planned to make a "jungle" camp near Grand Crossing yesterday, by bullying north side storekeepers and citizens, were foiled in their attempt by Patrolman Mike Britton, who escorted them to the temporary holdover at police station No. 4.

Britton said this morning that of the thousands of tramps that he has had to deal with at Grand Crossing this spring, these four are the toughest he has seen. August Anderson, proprietor of the Boston Grocery store on Rose and St. Cloud streets, reported that yesterday two of the party came in his place purchasing five cents worth of ground coffee, and while his back was turned, the two men deftly ransacked his counter of all the edibles that could be placed in their pockets.

Frank Student, upon refusing a cripple who was a member of the party a dime which was requested, was hit over the head with his crutch, inflicting small wounds on the scalp. Several other insults to residents in the vicinity of Grand Crossing were reported before the police got on the trail of the four desperadoes. The four men are being held at No. 4 station until they can be brought to central station.

SAYS HE DIVIDED STOLEN MONEY

Trip to Pacific Coast Ends in Minneapolis; Boys Return When Broke

John Huss, 17, who has confessed to the theft of $20 from a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. T. Thorgeson, 2108 George street, Monday, May 12, and William G. Anderson and George Grover, two other boys who are believed by the police to be implicated, were arrested at their homes this morning by Patrolman Michael Britton.

Last Monday morning Huss was seen in the grocery store of Mrs. Thorgeson, acting queerly, and upon his departure $20 was found to be missing from a pocketbook which was hanging on the cash drawer, behind the counter. When Huss knew that he was suspected he returned to the store making threatening statements, and saying that he was going away, but upon returning would revenge himself.

The police this morning turned the table on Huss and his two companions who returned last night from a hobo trip to the Twin cities, which it is said was financed by the stolen $20.

Huss and a crowd of boys had been planning on a trip to the Pacific coast for some time, and it was an easy matter to persuade Anderson and Grover to leave the city with him. Huss divided the money equally among the boys, he says. Grover pretended that his share of the money was all spent, as he says he thought best to return to his home to give back the part of the money that he had. He tried to persuade the other boys to his way of thinking. They returned when all their money was gone, and they had nothing to eat.

When found this morning at his home, Grover turned over $5 to Patrolman Britton. The boys will be arraigned in county court today or Monday on a charge of larceny.

Mrs. Charles Granke, Hamilton, Mont., is visiting at the home of Otto Granke, on Rose street.

Pete Anderson left for his summer camp this morning at the head of French Island.

Sever Spoonick, Martin Huff, John Augdahl and Morris Christianson are leaving this evening for Peter Anderson's camp for a few day's vacation. They will devote their time principally in fishing.

Have You Seen America?

Have you ever stood on top of Pike's Peak and looked off at the rest of the world and experienced sensations that are not to be described in words?

Are you numbered among those who know the pleasures and benefits of a sojourn in that great natural sanitarium—the Black Hills of South Dakota?

Have you ever enjoyed the health-giving pleasures of a camping trip in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming or along the Cody Road to Yellowstone Park?

Did you ever go coaching through Nature's wonderland—Yellowstone Park?

Have your eyes ever been blessed with a sight of that emerald gem of the Northern Rockies—Lake McDonald—in Glacier National Park?

Have you ever stood on the shore of Great Salt Lake and seen the tints of Utah's skies at sunset?

Did you ever visit "The Charmed Land of the American Continent," bordering on America's Mediterranean (Puget Sound) and the surrounding country to which Nature has given a bewitching beauty and a wonderful climate?

Did you ever peep over the rim of the Grand Canyon in Arizona and gaze down into that wonderful chasm which no one ever has been able to describe?

Are you familiar with the undreamed-of scenic wealth of glorious California—that land of out o' doors

These are but a few of the many show places in America that Europe would pay fabulous prices to get, but can't have because they are ours to enjoy here in this country.

If these scenes are strange to you, why not pack your grip and visit some of them this summer?

No form of education is more inspirational than travel. Decide right now to make 1913 memorable for its perfect vacation.

Make the most of your trip—let me help you plan it. The furnishing of complete details for vacation trips is a part of "Burlington Service."

OYEN IS ELECTED POSTER PRESIDENT

La Crosse Man Again Chosen Head of State Advertising Association at Convention

Louis A. Oyen, of La Crosse, for the second time was elected president of the Wisconsin Poster Advertisers association, at the state convention which was held in Milwaukee Wednesday and Thursday. More than sixty of the biggest poster advertising men in the state were present at the convention which is called annually to discuss trade subjects and means of bettering advertising methods.

John E. Logenan, secretary of the national association of advertisers; Herbert L. Duce, editor of the posters Advertisers magazine and Mr. Oyen were the principal speakers on the program.

While the convention was in session a substantial boost was given for the associated advertising clubs national convention which will be held in Baltimore June 8 to 14. Every bill board in the state carries a large "ad" for this convention.

One near the Elks club in this city bears the following in huge type: "Go to the biggest business convention in history, June 8 to 14. On to Baltimore. Associated Advertising Clubs."

SPRECKELS TO SEE WILSON

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Rudolph Spreckels, president of the First National bank of San Francisco and organizer of the Wilson Republican Campaign clubs last fall, today made an engagement to see President Wilson Monday prior to his departure for England. It is reported that Spreckels will give his ideas on currency reform to the president.

Something New on Hen.

A young Boston college woman was following the suburbanite about his place and doing her best to show her full appreciation of the semi-rural beauty of the establishment. On visiting the hen-yard she became enraptured. One hen was unusually well marked. "Oh!" the young woman exclaimed enthusiastically, "what beautiful foliage that hen has!"

Won Papa's Dollar.

Martha's school report card had very low marks. Her father promised her a dollar if she got a hundred in anything. Shortly after that she fell sick. When the doctor had taken her temperature the mother asked him what the temperature was. "A hundred and four," was the reply. "Mother," cried Martha, "I have won the dollar from papa. I've got over a hundred."

Primitive Farming in Spain.

In some parts of Spain, as in the Seville district, there are many large farms ranging from 1,000 acres up to 10,000 or even more. In other parts of the country thousands of peasants till little plots of from two acres to five acres apiece. There the use of modern farm machinery makes very slow progress.

PATERSON CRISIS COMING THURSDAY

Attempt to Tie Up Whole City by General Two-day Strike Will Be Made by I. W. W.

(By John Edward Navin, Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

PATERSON, N. J., May 17.—"We will tie up every industry in this city next Thursday and Friday and demonstrate for the boss the solidarity of labor. And we will do it by peaceful means. There will be no rioting."—William D. Haywood.

"There can be no general strike here. The I. W. W. has polled its entire strength. The other trades are not in sympathy with these agitators. And if any attempt is made to drive the men from their work, it will be a sorry effort for those responsible."—Mayor McBride.

The above conflicting statements summarize the situation as it exists in the silk city today. Haywood and the leaders of the striking silk workers have decided to stand, or fall, in an attempt to show that their cause has the sympathy of all of the workers in the city.

They declare that they have had the quiet assurance of hundreds of workers that they are willing to participate in a two days' strike which will tie up everything, including the means of transportation and city lighting. If they can do this, they believe, the employing mill owners will immediately grant all their demands. And in order to make the strike a success, each one of the 25,000 sik workers now now on strike has been asked to influence at least one worker in other trades to join in the protest.

It is very unlikely that the strike will be successful. The officers of the public service corporation have canvassed their men. They declare that every single individual has promised loyalty and emphatically declared he will have no part in such move. All of the other unions which are affiliated with A. F. of L. denounce the suggestion.

SOCIETY

FAREWELL DANCING PARTY

Complimentary to Miss Eva Laylin, who leaves Sunday for St. Paul, Miss Lilah Bigelow and Harry Robinson entertained at a dancing party at Steve's hall on French Island. About twenty-five couple were present. A delicious luncheon was served.

Miss Johanna Pederson, 1316 Market street, entertained a few friends in honor of Miss Eva Laylin. Dainty refreshments were served. Those present were the Misses Eva Laylin, Viola Frisch, Margaret Kienahs, Lilah Bigelow, Mabel Engebretsen and Anna Pederson.

Friday evening Miss Viola Frisch entertained a few friends at a Majestic party in honor of Miss Eva Laylin. The guests were the Misses Edith Dickens, Lilah Bigelow, Mabel Engebretsen, Johanna Pederson, Eva Laylin and Viola Frisch.

BUFFET BREAKFAST

Mrs. D. O. Coate presided at a handsome buffet breakfast this morning. One hundred and fifty invitations were issued and judging from the number present it is safe to say very few regretted. The rooms were beautifully decorated with spring blossoms, lilacs, lilies of the valley, roses and violets.

In the reception hall great bunches of snap dragons decorated the tables.

Receiving with the hostess was Mrs. Albert Hardy, Mrs. George Gordon and Mrs. W. L. Crosby had charge of the receiving room, introducing the strangers and guiding the guests to the different rooms. Mrs. Munson Burton and Miss Gertrude Hogan alternated in serving the salad and Mrs. Englemann and Mrs. W. S. Cargill poured the coffee. They were assisted by the Misses Holford, Mabel Potts and Katherine Martindale. The ice room was in charge of Mrs. Florence Bunting. Miss Hutchinson, Miss Hackett, Miss Eustis and Miss Hatty Anderson dispensed the ices and cakes.

One of the distinguishing features of the occasion was the handsome colonial furniture with which the house is filled and which was admired and looked upon with envious eyes, much of it being inherited and hence doubly valuable.

CERTAIN OF KERN PROBE

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Certain that the Kern resolution proposing a senatorial probe of the alleged peonage and violation of civil rights in West Virginia will be passed by the senate, possibly on Monday, representatives of the American Federation of Labor claimed that a majority of the committee to which the resolution will be referred are favorable to its enactment.

Choir Couldn't See It.

The choir of a village church had sung an anthem in fine style, with all its might and strength, till the very roof of the old church seemed to vibrate with tremendous uproar. At the close of the anthem the lesson for the day was begun. "And after the uproar was ceased," the parson read out, in a clear and sonorous voice. The whole congregation immediately tittered audibly, but the choir could not understand the joke.

"Rings" From Smoking Volcanoes.

A smoking volcano very often blows rings just like a man who is meditatively puffing a cigar. Sometimes these rings are five or six hundred feet across. In both cases the "smoke" consist of a cloud of fine particles which show the existence of a vortex-ring, the ring itself being a rotating mass of gas or air.

Thoroughly Ventilated.

"What you need most," said the physician after he had examined the patient, "is plenty of ventilation." "Gee, doctor," the sick man replied, "you must be mistaken. I've been operated on three times in the last year and a half."

It Was Tough.

"Will you give me a pie, madam," asked the tramp, "if I saw ye some wood?" The woman agreed to the bargain, gave the man a pie and started him in the direction of the woodpile. In three minutes he was back at the door saying, "Madam, if it's all one to you, I'll eat the wood an' saw the pie."

Didn't Dare to Go to Work.

"I say, Tom, lend me another ten, will you?" "Heavens! Why don't you go to work and earn money?" "Don't dare to, my boy. People would think the governor had disinherited me, and that would ruin my credit."

Doing Their Sums.

ATLANTA SOCIETY GIRL SAVES BABE FROM FLAMES; MAY GET CARNEGIE MEDAL

Miss Emma Kate Amorous.

Miss Emma Kate Amorous of Atlanta, Ga., one of the prettiest of the season's debutantes, has earned her right to be called a heroine as well as a beauty.

In a recent fire at Atlanta Miss Amorous was the means of saving a two-year-old babe from the flames. As no one else seemed willing to make the attempt to save the child, Miss Amorous rushed into the burning building and brought the baby out alive.

There is some talk of securing a Carnegie hero medal for her.

PRESBYTERIANS IN SESSION

ATLANTA, Ga., May 17.—Formal departmental reports as to Sunday schools, education, Sabbath observance and theological seminary work occupied the separate sessions today of the Northern, Southern and United Presbyterian conferences. The delegates were entertained at a reception in the city's suburbs this afternoon. Tonight a joint meeting of the conferences will discuss Christian service.

This Poet's Wife Was Practical.

"If I can do anything to cheer and brighten the lives of my fellow men I shall be perfectly satisfied," remarked the long-haired poet. "Then," replied his weary wife, "why don't you quit writing poetry and get up a comic series in which the humor is furnished by some one who hits another over the head with a club?"

BAKERS CALLED IN HEALTH MEET

To Hear Laws on Sanitation Explained; Deputy Says They Are Below Standard

Deputy C. J. Kremer of the industrial commission, and in charge of the inspection of bakeries in the state, has been in La Crosse the last few days and with Dr. J. M. Furstman, commissioner of health, examined the condition of the local bakeries. He says they cannot be called good but attributed whatsoever is unsatisfactory to ignorance and carelessness rather than wilful misconduct.

To thoroughly instruct all interested as to the requirements of the law and the importance of clean bakery products for the public a meeting of all persons employed in or about bakeries has been called for Monday, May 19, at 4:30 p. m. in the rooms of the health department, city hall.

Dr. Edward Evans, chairman of the board of health, Dr. J. M. Furstman, commissioner of health, and members of the industrial commission of Wisconsin will speak.

After this meeting ignorance of the sanitary requirements will not be accepted as an excuse for unclean conditions.

The general public is also invited.

MORE BUM BOMBS PLANTED BY WOMEN

Little Attention Paid to Demonstration by the Weary British Police

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAINS

Tools and Explosive Found on Line of the Midland Railway

LONDON, May 17.—Several more "bombs" were reported found in various parts of England today, but the tired police refused to get excited by any suffragette doings whatsoever, and little attention was paid to the reports.

The planting of "bombs" that never explode has paled into insignificance beside the discovery in Lancashire of a quantity of alleged train wrecking tools and explosives, on the line of the Midland railway. John Wilson and James Lucas were arrested on a high viaduct near Whalley in Lancashire, on the line that connects Manchester and Liverpool with Scotland. The men had crow-bars, sledge-hammers and explosives, and other tools were found in the vicinity.

Less than a week ago the Midland officials received by mail this anonymous warning:

"It is my duty to inform you that a desperate act will be attempted in a few days to wreck a main line express."

This circumstance, together with the fact that the men when arrested could give no good reason for being on the railway, made Lancashire folk believe that they planned to wreck a train. They were held without bail for a week, for investigation.

Another suffragette "bomb" that looked dangerous but probably could not have been exploded, was found beneath a bridge over the Great Western railway near Westbourne station. It was a cannister larger than those holding previous "bombs" and was filled with cartridges, wrapped in oil soaked cotton. A fuse was attached, which had been burned but which had gone out before it communicated with the cotton.

It was not denied today that the British government again has requested France to extradite Miss Christobal Pankhurst, a daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant leader, who fled from England a year ago to escape prosecution for conspiracy.

STOPS SPITBALLING IN THE ASSEMBLY

MADISON, Wis., May 17.—"Please Mr. Speaker," said Assemblyman Willie Votrite, timidly raising his hand, "the gentleman from Blink has my pencil box."

The speaker transfixed the offending member with a stony glare.

"Give it back instantly," quoth he. "The gentleman from Blink will stay after the session and write on the blackboard four whole pages from the governor's last message.

"And now, if the gentleman from Zip will cease whispering and the gentleman from Zing will stop wiggling in his seat, we will all sit in position and listen to the report of the finance committee."

Sounds foolish, but Speaker Merlin Hull believes it may come to that unless his orders are obeyed. His latest edict positively forbade members indulging in the playful pastime of throwing spitballs during the session.

U. B. TO RATIFY FARM PURCHASE

DECATUR, Ill., May 17.—Assurance was given today that before adjournment the United Brethren General conference here would ratify the purchase of the 4,005 acre Shaer farm at Lebbanon, Ohio. Governor Cox of Ohio, heads the commission holding the farm. It will be used for an orphans' and old people's home and will be given improvement costing $325,000.

The new officers of the conference, elected today are J. S. Kendall, Dayton, Ohio, secretary of Christian Stewardship; L. O. Miller, Dayton, church treasurer; C. Whitney, Dayton, secretary of the home missions; A. C. Siddall, Findlay, Ohio, secretary of church erection, and S. S. Hough, Dayton, secretary of foreign missions.

$1,308 CLEARED BY TAG DAY CAMPAIGN

The tidy sum of $1,308.75 was cleared by the tag day campaign for the visiting nurse fund and although less than that received last year is perfectly satisfactory according to an announcement by Mrs. George W. Burton, chairman of the tag day committee today. Mrs. Burton also desired to express the thanks of the committee to those who loaned the use of heir automobiles for the canvass of the residence districts and the officers and members of the Y. M. C. A. for the use of the building as headquarters that day, and most especially all who donated to the visiting nurse fund.

STEAMBOAT'S GOIN' AROUND THE BEND

Annual City Outing Set for June 11 by Merchants' Association; Go to Winona

WILL STOP AT TREMPEALEAU

Parties Already Being Made Up for Excursion on the Steamer St. Paul

Did you ever notice that if you try to say, "Wow, wow" with your mouth shut, you make a noise just like a steamboat whistle? 'S a fact! And what's more it is a sound that tickles the ear of everyone who lives on the mighty Mississippi. Sad to say it is a sound that is becoming painfully infrequent. Because of low water, the growth of railroads, and whatnot, the tuneful toot of the old raft boat and most of the freighters is borne no more with booming bellow across the valleys of the great river. The wayward excursion boat alone reminds the river dweller of the days when steamer crowded steamer at the La Crosse levee.

Therefore a river excursion will always prove a popular form of amusement if that be permitted to remain, and of all popular excursions perhaps the one that best arouses the public enthusiasm is the annual outing given by the merchants' association of this city.

On the morning of June 11, the old St. Paul, one of the most famous packets on the river, will tie up at the foot of Main street and her eighty horse power siren will wail its "wow, wow, wow," up the highways and byways of this city, calling one and all to a real day of pleasure on the river. When its hundreds of tons of human freight is comfortably stowed, in cabin, on deck and dancing floor, she will plow her majestic way to the neighboring city of Winona, stopping for an hour at the picturesque Trempealeau.

When the merchants and their wives and their sons and their daughters and their sweethearts and their friends reach the Minnesota gate city they will hasten to haunts long familiar, shaking hands with old friends and making new ones. Then as the shades of evening begin to fall they will steam back to LaCrosse making part of the trip on a river made magic by moonlight.

Music for the youngsters who wish to dance and for those not so young will be furnished by the boat's fine orchestra. Refreshments will be served on the boat or those who so prefer may bring whatever suits their fancy. Parties of old friends are already being made up for the excursion and you may as well plan to go for there will be "nothing doing" in the old town that day until the boat gets back and you can be assured that unless the weather man gets peevish you will have one good time.

AGED MAN IN BATTLE

SHOOTS NIECE'S HUSBAND AND IS HIMSELF WOUNDED IN BATTLE WITH THE POLICE

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 17.—With a bullet wound in his right arm from a battle with the police, William Hastings, aged 75, a brother of the late Governor Daniel H. Hastings, was held on a charge of felonious assault today following his attack on Ross A. Hickock, husband of his niece, the former governor's daughter. After Hastings had entered Hickock's home and emptied an automatic revolver at him, one bullet taking effect in his side, Jane Hickock, daughter of the injured man, telephoned to the police.

Hastings claims that the governor deprived him of his share of some family money, and is said to have continued his accusations and demands since the governor died.

WASHBURN WINS MEET

GRADE SCHOOL FIELD CONTEST WON BY 7 POINTS—RYAN OF WASHBURN IS STAR OF MEET

The annual grade school field and track meet held on the high school track this morning under the auspices of the high school was won by the Washburn school. The large banner going to the winner will be the permanent property of the Washburn school as they have won it three years in succession. Ryan of the Washburn school was the individual point winner, winning three firsts for his team. He also broke the record for the running broad jump by jumping 19 feet 9 inches. The old record was held by Krause of Hamilton school, now i nthe high school.

The points for the different schools are as follows:

Washburn 37; Franklin 30; Lincoln 20; Washington 10.

The Hamilton school had no entries.

BANGOR ATHLETE IS CARROLL STAR

WAUKESHA, Wis., May 17.—Arthur Kuranz of Bangor, Wis., is the great find of the past two years in athletic circles at Carroll college, and at the recent class meet captured first place as the best individual athlete, scoring 18 2-3 points for his class. Several other good men, however, are on the team, which is expected to make a strong showing in the state meet to be held on Frame field, Waukesha, May 31.

POST ASSISTANTS TO CONVENE HERE

About Sixty Assistant Postmaster to Visit La Crosse on May 20 and 21

INTERESTING PROGRAM PREPARED

Looney to Entertain Visitors with Auto Tour and Theater Party

The fifth annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Assistant Postmasters will be held in this city May 20 and 21. Headquarters for the visiting postmasters will be in the Stoddard Hotel. Sessions will be held in the court room of the postoffice. About thirty members of the association are expected in the city.

The first session will be held May 20 at 2 p. m. Mayor Ori J. Sorensen will deliver the opening address, welcoming the members of the association to the city. The response and the annual address will be made by President William H. Zuehlke. Report of the secretary and treasurer, Fred W. Graff, will be read.

An address on parcel post extensions and modifications will be given Peter J. Smith of Eau Claire. "How Will You Handle the Parcel Post Business at Christmas Time," will be the theme of an interesting talk by T. W. Leslie, Racine.

The second session will be held May 21 at 9 a. m. The following addresses will be given. "Postoffice Discipline," by ingwald Nelson, Madison; "Should Third and Fourth Class Mail Matter be Consolidated," Francis Claymier, South Milwaukee; "The Advisability of Placing the Entire Postoffice Department Under Civil Service," A. V. Olson, Rice Lake; "Is the Present Method of Handling Registered Mail Satisfactory," Lulu E. Wright. The reading of questions from the question box for topics for discussion will then be held.

A short session will be held on the same day at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Two short addresses will be delivered.

An automobile tour of the city and a theater party has been planned for the entertainment of the visitors by Assistant Postmaster C. C. Looney of La Crosse.

MAJESTIC TO OPEN AS HOME OF MOVIES

Running from five to seven reels of motion pictures every day, with the Kinemacolor special pictures featured, the Majestic will start on its summer career as a motion picture house tomorrow. Matinees will be given every day from 2 until 5, and the evening shows will last from 7 until 10:30. The improved Kinemacolor pictures, reproducing everything in the pictures in nature's colors, are to be the big attraction, but there will also be from three to five of the best licensed films, picked by the Majestic's own Chicago representative. The pictures will be changed four times a week, on Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Prices will be five cents in the balcony for children and adults, and ten cents for adults, five cents for children on the lower floor.

RECOMMEND PROBE OF INSANE ASYLUM

KANKAKEE, Ill., May 17.—In a sensational report submitted to the court today the Kankakee county grand jury recommended that the attention of Governor Dunne be called to conditions at the Kankakee state hospital for the insane and that an investigation be started at once.

The jury declares that inmates have been dealt with cruelly by the guards; that collusion exists among employes to suppress these charges and that the institution is handicapped by inexperienced and incompetent help.

The grand jury arraignment of conditions at the hospital grew out of the investigation into the death of an insane patient.

HE GOT JEFF DAVIS NOW LIVES SUICIDE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 17.—With a gold medal awarded him by congress clasped in his hands, Caspar Knobel, 70, the last of the band of fourteen cavalrymen who captured Jefferson Davis, the fleeing president of the confederacy, was found unconscious in his room while gas flowed from several jets. Knobel was rushed to the hospital and after surgeons had worked desperately over him, expressed the belief he might recover.

Only last Saturday Knobel was the central figure in the celebration of the 48th anniversary of the day he personally called on the confederate president to surrender. Knobel was believed to have become despondent on account of lack of funds.

REDS WIN CLOSE GAME WITH SALEM

The normal baseball team added another to its string of victories by defeating West Salem yesterday by a score of 2 to 1. The game was exciting throughout, a triple by "Bunny" Kuehn for the Salemites in the eighth inning threatening to give his team the game but Saubert pitching for the pedagogues, tightened and no further scoring was done. Hackner allowed nine hits and Saubert five. Batteries: Normal, Saubert and Knuteson; West Salem, Hackner and Gullickson.

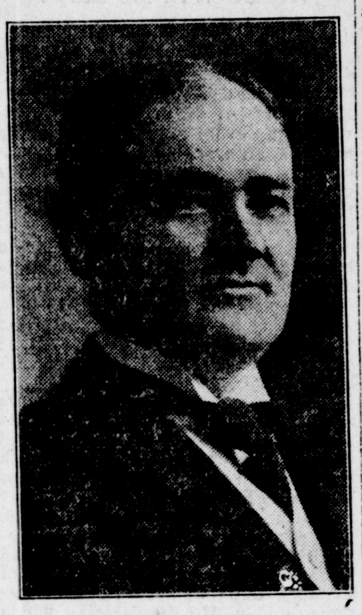

FRYE AND ADAMS IN NEW SHOE FIRM

Shoe Men of Long Experience Take Over Business of the Frye Shoe Company

ARE WELL KNOWN AND POPULAR

Members of New Firm Stand High and Are Regarded as Strong Combination

Frank Frye and W. F. Adams have formed a partnership to take over the business of the Frye Shoe company, which will be dissolved.

FRANK FRYE

Under a new firm style these two experienced men will continue the business in the old Frye stand, 422 Main street.

Perhaps no business deal in recent years has attracted greater attention than will attach to this transaction. Mr. Frye is the dean of La Crosse shoe men, having been in business for himself here for over twenty years, and in times past the most conspicuous landmark on Main street was the little "White Elephant" that stood guard above the door. Mr. Adams has become widely known as "Adams, the Shoe Man," having capped his shoe experience of twenty-one years in Chicago by establishing himself firmly in La Crosse as the result of aggressive and up-to-date business methods.

W. F. ADAMS

Both partners are recognized as masters of their business and both stand high in business circles and in the estimation of the La Crosse public; they propose for their new venture a progressive policy calculated to win in a still greater degree the confidence and esteem of the people of this city.

FIVE COUPLES ARE DIVORCED BY COURT

Five divorces were granted by Judge E. C. Higbee in circuit court today and one case was continued until next term of court. Desertion and non-support furnished the grounds for action in every instance. The decrees granted are as follows: Josephine Felske from Otto Felske; Anna Smunty from Joseph Smunty; Alvin Ingversen from Fred Ingversen; Rozella Stoda from Joseph Stoda, and Celia McDonald from Arthur McDonald. The case of Frank Davis against Frances Davis was continued.

SEPTEMBER MORN AGAIN

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Poor Miss "September Morn," who shocked Alderman "Bathouse John" in Chicago, and whose display of loveliness has caused others beside Anthony Comstock to gasp in dismay, seems likely to be banned from display in Washington. The public morals committee of the Truth society, viewed Chabas picture from the pavement on F street, looking into an art dealer's store, and after noting the crowd of folks likewise occupied, reported that the canvas should be suppressed. An appeal has been made to the police department.

REFUSES MILITIA FOR CINCINNATI

Governor Cox Will Not Call Out State Troops to Quell Car Strike Riots

MAY ASK COMPANY RECEIVER

Mayor Hunt and His Advisers May Take This Means to End the Trouble

CINCINNATI, O., May 17.—Following serious riots in the street car strike here today when the traction company attempted to operate cars on nine lines without policemen aboard, Mayor Hunt appealed to Gov. Cox for state troops and later demanded militia of Adjutant-General Wood. Governor Cox refused to send troops, saying that he did not believe the authorities had taken adequate steps to suppress the riots.

Although Attorney General Hogan ruled that Mayor Hunt had the authority to call out Hamilton county militia without the governor's sanction, the former stated this afternoon that he would not take that action. He said there were only 145 militiamen available in the companies here and that number would be wholly inadequate to cope with the situation.

The mayor called a conference this afternoon with his advisers and it was reported a suit would be filed late today for a received for the Cincinnati Traction company.

The riots today completely tied up street car traffic. This afternoon not a street car was running, the company having abandoned attempts to operate.

The principal riots occurred in the down-town sections where several cars were attacked simultaneously. While the police were quieting one crowd at one point, other outbreaks were occurring in other sections of the city. Strike breakers refused to take out cars in several instances.

Mayor Hunt announced at 4 o'clock this afternoon a suit for a receiver would be filed against the Cincinnati Traction company. It is expected the grounds will be that the city is being deprived of revenue by the stopping of service, as it receives a percentage of the company's gross receipts.

The suit will be filed before Judge Geoghegan. If the receiver is appointed he will run the street car system with the old men now on strike under the auspices of the court and the city.

BUFFALO CLERKS WILL COMPROMISE

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 17.—The striking dry goods and department store clerks today voted to accept a proposition made by the stores granting an eight hour day, a week's vacation with pay during August and July, and no discrimination to be shown between union and non-union clerks.

The agreement does not establish the minimum wage and does not recognize the union. There was considerable opposition to the agreement by the clerks delegates but it was finally voted to accept.

The striking clerks will return to work on Monday.

WEEK FINANCIAL

Bank Statement

NEW YORK, May 17.—The weekly actual bank statement issued today showed the following changes:

Surplus increased $5,776,000.
Loans decreased $3,238,000.
Specie increased $4,735,000.
Legals increased $1,664,000.
Deposits increased $5,390,000.
Circulation increased $21,000.
Surplus reserve $25,275,400.

(Copyright, 1913, by the New York Evening Post)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Today's stock market pretty much capped the climax of dullness. Except for an isolated sharp break in Rock Island shares, no change in prices worthy of notice occurred, and activity was at a minimum.

As far as Wall street opinion is concerned, it will often happen that very long maintenance of a given position will grow wearisome to the speculative mind, unless something definite and important comes to hand in the news, to confirm or emphasize previous impressions. It can hardly be said that this has happened during the present month, and meantime the absolute deadlock of the speculative stock market means that Wall street has ceased to "discount" anything. Whatever else may be said of the situation, the perpetual harping on one theme, the continuous reciting of a single argument, grows tedious in a great financial market as it does nowhere else in the world.

There is one inference from the resultant situation, however, which is reasonably logical, though not very often heard in the prevalent mood of financial pessimism. It is that when the price of invested capital has arisen, because demand has the moment grown larger than supply—or, to put it another way, when the price of the best securities has fallen because supply is larger than demand—the real opportunity for people with capital to invest has come. Nobody disputes that principle in any other market than the market for stocks and bonds. It is quite true that conditions may exist under which low prices for land or grain or dry goods mean that such things are at the moment not a good investment; that for instance, they would probably be left unproductively on the buyers hands. Even so, the intelligent buyer knows that at some point in a decline, the market must reach intrinsic values.

BARNEY BERTSCHE IS INDICTED TODAY

CHICAGO, May 17.—Barney Bertsche, politician and former attache of the Busch regime, was today indicted for practicing a confidence game and as an accessory by the grand jury investigating charges of collusion between police officials, politicians and clairvoyants in a "crime trust."

Eight other indictments, said to have been voted by the grand jury, were not made public in its partial report. State's Attorney Hoyne promised several more arrests before Monday.

Bertsche is now out on bail. James Ryan, alias "Prof. Charles T. Crane," a clairvoyant, charged with swindling Mrs. Hope L. McEldowney of La Crosse, Wis., out of $15,500, already under indictment, was indicted on another count.

Clendennin, W. Va., is seeking a mayor. Considering the time of year this is, why doesn't it look for him where the fishing is good?

NORWEGIANS WILL CELEBRATE DAY

Big Crowd Expected to Attend Program at Germania Hall Tonight

INDEPENDENCE DAY PROGRAM

Norden Band and Normanna Sangerkor to Furnish Music; Bothne to Speak

Nearly 1,000 native born or descendant Norwegians are expected to attend the Independence Day celebration which will be held in the Germania hall tonight in honor of the anniversary of Norway's freedom. The elaborate program which has been arranged in accordance with the ancient custom and which today is being celebrated all over the world where Norwegians are congregated together will be given in their native language.

Prof. Gisle Bothne of the department of languages at the University of Minnesota, and who is known the world over as an authority on Scandinavian languages, will be the speaker of the evening. The Norden band and the Normanna Saengerkor will furnish the music for the occasion.

A fine luncheon will be served by the members of the Ibsen club. It is expected that the members of the several Norwegian societies will attend the exercises in a body.

The program opens at 8 o'clock and it is expected that it will last until midnight. The entertainment is free to all. Attorney James Thompson and Drs. Gunderson and Christensen are the committee in charge of arrangements.

CLOSE THEATER "PIT"

WOHLHUTER ORDERED TO RENOVATE BUILDING AND INSTALL ADEQUATE STEEL FIRE ESCAPES

As the result of an inspection trip and conference today by the board of health and the health and fire committees of the common council, H. G. Wohlhuter, proprietor of the La Crosse Theater, was ordered to close immediately and permanently the highest gallery in the theater or the "pit" as it is commonly called. The order also demands that the entire building be renovated to comply with the state laws on sanitation and that adequate steel construction fire escapes be installed. Mr. Wohlhuter was ordered to clean up the stage and dressing rooms and to clean the boiler room of waste paper and other combustibles.

Mayor Sorensen announced today that Mr. Wohlhuter has already complied with the terms of the order in part and will undoubtedly close the pit immediately. It is said that the Drama league is in part responsible for the action of the city officials today. The order states that unless the demands are given immediate attention the theater will be closed until "full compliance therewith."

The order was signed by Mayor Ole Sorensen, J. M. Furstman, health commissioner and Fire Chief Nathan Bradfield.

SCORELESS PITCHING NEW WRINKLE IN BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL; FANS ALL AGOG AS JOHNSON AND MATHEWSON RACE FOR RECORD

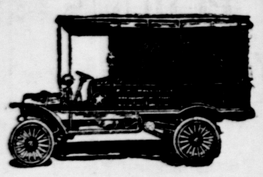

Left to right: Doc White, Walter Johnson, Jack Coombs (bottom) and Christy Mathewson.

Scoreless pitching is the new wrinkle in the major leagues this year. The fanning public stands agog at the superhuman efforts of leading slabbists to establish records for the number of innings they can pitch without allowing the opposition club to register a run.

In the American league Walter Johnson with 56 scoreless innings has made the record of the year. In the National league Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants is in the lead.

Jack Coombs set the scoreless inning record in 1910, when he went 53 rounds without letting a count over. In 1904 Doc White of Chicago traveled 46 runless innings. This mark stood for six years.

DONOR SPEAKS AT DEDICATION OF NEW ANNEX

time has shown that our prediction was to be fulfilled and even now the building is none too large.

"I am satisfied, however, with the inability of the council to give us the money—I am glad they did not for I am satisfied that if they had, the building we could have built with it would not compare with the one Mr. Hixon has given us.

"We began the teaching of manual training on a small scale hoping to interest the public with the results. That we succeeded is amply evinced by the building we are dedicating tonight. Mr. Hixon saw the manual training exhibits on Fourth and Main streets two years ago and it set him to thinking of the possibilities if the work could be done with adequate facilities. Mr. Hixon has done a great deal more than he promised. The building and its equipment far excels what he told us he would give us.

The Best Token of Thanks

"The best way the parents of this city can thank Mr. Hixon is to have their children take advantage of the opportunity he has prepared for them. We find that pupils taking manual training receive the highest marks in their examinations. Let a general raise in the standards of education in this city be our testimonial of esteem and gratitude."

That the value of Mr. Hixon's gift cannot be measured in dollars and cents was the statement of Harry Hirshheimer, president of the Teachers' and Parents' association, who presented the resolution of thanks prepared by that association. "We can appraise the building and its equipment," he said, "but its value is far reaching in the increased efficiency of our children when they grow to man and womanhood. We have a commercial course in the high school which has more than proved its value and the manual training will do the same along different lines. It will make for an increased earning power of its students, better health and better opportunity."

Mr. Hirshheimer then read and presented the beautifully scrolled and illuminated resolution of thanks, the expression of the parents' and teachers' association.

As Mr. Hixon rose to receive what he termed "the memorial of the happiest moment of my life," a storm of applause swept the audience and it was several moments before he could make himself heard. He briefly thanked the audience for its expression of appreciation and told of his purpose in presenting the annex and its equipment to the people of this city. He spoke in part as follows:

Increased Attendance

"Although for a long time deeply interested in the subject, I disclaim any special knowledge of manual training which disqualifies me to discuss it in any way that would interest you. I think that I fully appreciate the value of the facilities provided for acquiring technical knowledge of manual skill and dexterity, but there is another side which appeals to me still more strongly. I anticipate that time will prove that the addition to the high school which we are here to dedicate tonight, will find its broadest usefulness in bringing about a largely increased attendance by reason of the inducement which it affords in a practical way, coupled with the attractions which its other features will hold forth to many who might not otherwise be inspired to take a high school course.

"I trust and believe that enough parents and pupils, indifferent to the advantages of the ordinary high school training, will be so influenced by the attractions of the manual training course, the new gymnasium and its adjuncts, that the enrollment of the high school will be increased within a year or two by from 150 to 200 pupils.

"This, in the course of time, must inevitably have a telling effect in the way of raising the average intelligence, efficiency and good citizenship of the community.

Predicts Revolution in Methods

"Within the past few days one of the leading statisticians of the world, a keen observer and writer on questions of economics, has predicted a revolution in educational methods, in the course of time, which will have as its purpose the equalizing of opportunity, and ultimately, more even distribution of wealth. He predicts that economics will be taught children from ten years old upwards; that there will be courses in character building and practical intelligence, and that the great aim will be to develop efficiency in the masses and the ability to acquire and retain a fair share of the world's property. The schools will teach the youth of the well-to-do that fortunes are more in the nature of liabilities than assets, and that those who have should not be afraid to distribute, and give others a better chance, and to help the masses to become prosperous.

Make School Work Desirable

"This prediction may never be fulfilled, but we all must agree, everything which tends to make school life and school work attractive and desirable instead of things to be dreaded and have done as speedily and as soon as possible, everything added in the way of opportunity to acquire something which appeals to the average intelligence as likely to be of use and value in later life, is a distinct advance towards a much desired end.

"In conclusion, I desire to acknowledge the expressions made by and through the speakers who have preceded me, and to record my grateful appreciation of all the kind things which have been said since the announcement of this project. The general interest and enthusiasm manifested were quite unlooked for by me and have enhanced manyfold the pleasure which the doing of this work has afforded me, rendering this day of final consummation one of the happiest of my life."

Prof. Frederick D. Crawshaw, introduced by Superintendent Benezet as "the man who created the manual arts department of the University of Wisconsin," closed the program with an able discourse on "The Education of Youth for Service." His statement, "we are here to dedicate a noble building to a worthy purpose" contained the keynote of his address and as he elaborated on the "worthiness of the purpose," the audience grasped the real significance of Mr. Hixon's gift.

"This building is more than a mere pile of brick and masonry," said Prof. Crawshaw. "It represents an educational opportunity. Its purpose is to develop the most important if not the fundamental activity of the human race—industrial occupation. In erecting this beautiful manual arts building Mr. Hixon has made a great investment—not only in dollars and cents—nor will his best return be in the personal popularity, but in the public good will come the most material asset. The relationship between making a living and living a lifge will be shown in this institution and that priceless possession—good citizenship—becomes possible to every girl and boy in La Crosse."

Prof. Crawshaw argued that the type of activities exemplified in manual arts are democratic more than scholastic but at the same time cultural in the broader sense. He pointed out that an efficient man is a cultured man whereas a cultured man may not be efficient.

"There are new impulses and new demands in education today," he said, "and youth are leaving school at an early age because they are not interested in the subjects and courses of study There is an educational unrest and public schools must be made more useful. Drawing, shopwork, commercial courses, home activities, agriculture and other subjects in the manual arts department have been introduced recently and are but a step in educational progress. A revolution is going on in the system and stands are being changed. Nearly 100 schools in Wisconsin are teaching manual arts but none are better equipped than the La Crosse school after tonight."

The speaker asserted that the real purpose of public schools should be the education of all the children of all the people and that representative subjects should be offered rather than courses. He said that there is a great waste in education through duplication, and that this may be avoided if the student is allowed to chose the studies necessary in his afterlife. All subjects he said have a cultural as well as technical value.

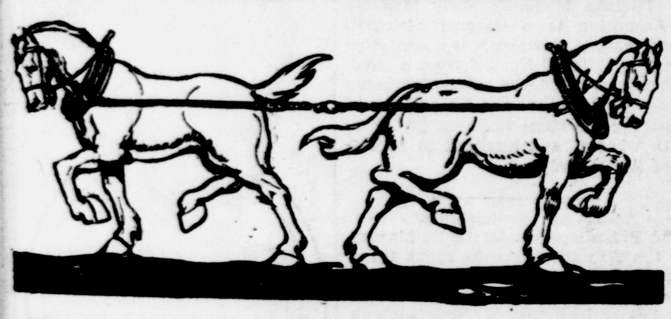

"The high school period," he said, "when they are neither babes nor men, is when they are the most susceptible to outside influences and this building will prove the partial solution to a great problem. Boys and girls will not leave this school so early. Boys and girls do not want to go to work nor in most cases do their parents want them to go to work. Parents often prefer to sacrifice themselves to keep their children in school. They quit because school means nothing to them. Let this institution be a place where children learn to live a life so as to make a living and Mr. Hixon's gift shall not be in vain."

At the close of the program Mr. Benezet thanked Mr. Hixon on the behalf of the school children and teachers of the city and concluded with the statement, "You do not need the word of any man to know the sentiment of the citizens of this city."

Tracing Journey of Storks.

By putting rings on the legs of storks about to migrate southward from countries in northern Europe, where they spend the warm months, it has been found that they often go all the way to South Africa, usually passing around the east end of the Mediterranean instead of across that sea.

What Team Work Will Do

These horses don't get anywhere because they are PULLING AGAINST EACH OTHER.

Hitched together as a team they could pull a load bigger than themselves.

It is the same way with men.

Pulling against each other they get nowhere.

Pulling together they accomplish wonders.

The only way to make a town advance is BY TEAM WORK.

The last census shows that many American cities and villages advanced marvelously, others almost stood still, while others actually went backward.

It is a 10 to 1 bet that in the growing towns you will find a UNITED CIVIC SPIRIT. They support a board of trade, a commercial club or some other form of organized boosting.

It is just as certain that in the towns standing still or going backward will be found factionalism and bickering—the citizens pulling in different directions.

Even horse sense ought to teach men the advantage of pulling together.

TEAM WORK—that's the secret of TOWN BOOMING—team work!

Pertinent Question.

Little Arthur's mother had been telling him the story of a ferocious bear, and after ruminating over it awhile he suddenly exclaimed, "S'pose I was walking in the woods and a big bear came along and ate me up—how's my soul going to get out of that bear's stummick to get to heaven?"

Modern Drama.

The plays we think we ought to see, they send up fast asleep; the plays that we would like to see—to them we daren't creep; the plays that people talk about strike us as rather small; and the plays that people take us to—oh, they're the worst of all.

ONLY NERVOUS

The sufferer from Neurasthenia (lack of nerve force) frequently places himself in the "only nervous" class. Let us see why he is nervous. That "born tired" feeling becomes chronic. Every little exertion of mind or body is followed by fatigue out of all proportion. He has a great deal of headache and frequently has backache. All manner of vague sensations, such as heat, cold, prickling, numbness, stiffness, soreness, pain and pressure felt in limbs or any part of the body. Eyes seem affected, sounds and smells may become exaggerated and any slight surprise produces a real nervous shock. He has nervous indigestion, with variable appetite and constipation, or diarrhœa is common. There is palpitation of the heart or pains around the heart annoy and distress the poor sufferer, who becomes from these accumulated troubles full of anxiety and fear. These sensations become symptoms of disease and in time the symptoms become chronic and if permitted to run their course, lead the victim into maladies which break down the nerve force so that he or she is unfit for work or pleasure. For the man or woman so afflicted to think there is nothing the matter is a serious injustice and a great injury.

Only Nervous? Diagnosis is difficult and that is why so many fail to cure neurasthenics. Nervousness is the costume and mask—the outward appearance so imperfectly seen and comprehended by the inexpert as regards its true significance, that what is beneath—the underlying cause for the trouble—is overlooked. If you are "only nervous" you must awaken to the dangers of neglecting the nervousness and you must not permit yourself to drift into conditions which will bring on maladies that will prove a menace to your future.

What is needed is sympathetic, skillful, prompt and continuous treatment. You can and must obtain relief. Consult the eminent Dr. Turbin, who visits our city once a month.

NEW SEATS BOTHER THE CONGRESSMEN

No Place to Put Their Feet Except in Back of the Man in the Front

CALLED DOWN BY SPEAKER CLARK

Champ Objects to Having Brains Whetted on the Soles of Boots

BY BURTON K. STANDISH.
(Written for the United Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—It's pretty rough sledding these days for those poor old congressmen in the house of representatives who have a kindly regard for their own comfort while they are "legislating." An air of politeness and conventionality has crept into the house and several comfortable stunts that congressmen used to perform with tired feet and aching brows have been put on the bad form list which has been given a prohibitive duty.

When the last election added to the number of congressmen in the house, it necessitated tearing out the comfortable swivel chairs and little mahogany desks, and the installation of long rows of seats which are a cross between theater chairs and those chairs on which the elder of the congressmen were wont to fret when they attended the district school. The seats now used in the house are a little less uncomfortable than the hard district school seats and a little more comfortable than some of the seats in some theaters.

No Comfort in Seats.

The representatives now file in and take a seat like a flock of theater patrons and the old members, with sad memories of the days when they sank luxuriously into the seats of former days and swivelled them back at a comfortable angle with their feet resting deliciously on a line with their chins. Today this is all changed. There isn't a place for the feet—except of course on the floor—and if a weary congressman slumps down into his seat, his knees hit the hard backs of the chairs in front. But worst of all there is only one arm to the chairs, just like it is in a theater, and the man who gets there first always gets that arm.

At first, resolved to have comfort at any expense, some of the members nonchalantly deposited their feet on the tops of the seats in front. As a result, the house presented here and there, pictures of sloughing congressmen, with open vests, and feet of assorted sizes flapping idly against and in the near vicinity of some legislative cranium. Some eastern representatives who wouldn't open their vests and flap their suspenders e'en though they were suffocating, eyed the flapping feet with disfavor, and finally went to Speaker Champ Clark. What they said to the speaker is a dark mystery, but recently that worthy advanced to his forum, cleared his throat the way your father used to before he began that little stunt "which hurt him more than it did you," gazed rather apologetically down on the house, and, forgetting he came from Missouri, boomed forth:

"Gentlemen, I just want to call attention to the fact that there are a lot of new members here. That increases the difficulty of preserving proper order. You know there is a rule against smoking. There's also a rule against bringing lighted cigars onto the floor. That rule is being violated." Here the speaker again cleared his throat in that "darned-if-i-don't-hate-to-manner," and continued: "There—ah—er—with these new seats there is less comfort than formerly and I see some members have started the system of resting their feet against the backs of the heads in front of them. Now I've just been told this is bad form as well as hard usage of the seats—not to mention the wear on some of the most brilliant brains of our times. I ask that the practice be discontinued."

At the moment Speaker Clark was talking, there were, here and there, several feet waving like huge elephant ears on either side of the heads of the members who sat in front of the feet. Amid sighs, the feet slowly came down from their heights and were placed conventionally on the floor, Congressmen again straightened up and Congressman "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma, who believes not in la-de-da things, snorted, opened his vest a little wider and contemptuously snapped his suspenders.

The new seats have entirely changed the appearance of the house, not to mention the appearance of the members, who heretofore have been able to hide from spectators in the gallery, their rotund or otherwise waistlines behind mahogany desks.

These desks hid the unbecoming curves of many a vain congressman, leaving only rows of more or less passable shoulders, faces and heads to be seen by the public who came to see the national legislature in action. The desks gave the house a more dignified appearance, but that's all past and gone, as has been said before. Now there is a choice array of Santa Claus-like "tummies" and legislative legs on display.

But what's to be done? Superintendent Woods of the Capitol building says that by the time the next apportionment comes around he will have to cut down the size of the present miniature seats and reduce the space between the rows. Such gentlemen as Sereno Payne and Representativ Sims of Tnnessee, whose portliness is well known, take notice!

Reo the Fifth

Note Its Up-to-Dateness

The best cars today have left-side drive. They have set-in electric dash lights. They have oversize tires.

Any car without these features is already out-of-date. But the only car in this class which has them is Reo the Fifth, Mr. Olds' latest car.

Other Things

This car also has 15 roller bearings, though common ball bearings cost one-fifth as as much. It has 190 drop forgings, to avoid risk of flaws.

It is built of analyzed steel, with every driving part given 50 per cent overcapacity. Its gears are tested in a 50-ton crushing machine. Its springs are tested for 100,000 vibrations.

It has a $75 magneto — a doubly-heated carburetor. It is built to run in five years from now just as it runs the first summer.

Lowest Cost

This car is built in a model factory, whose enormous output consists of one model. In this way alone Mr. Olds has saved about 20 per cent on cost.

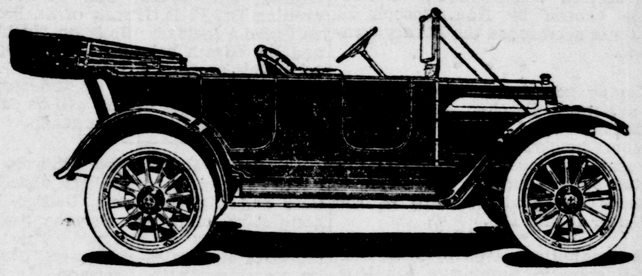

In no other way could a car built like this be sold at the Reo price. For Mr. Olds spends about $200 per car on extremes which some think unnecessary.

No Levers

A single center rod, set out of the way, does all the gear shifting. One moves this rod only three inches in each of four directions.

No side levers, no center levers—nothing in one's way. Both brakes are operated by foot pedals. So the driver enters from either side. The front of the car is clear.

Come and see in this car the final ideas of a man who has spent 26 years in car building.

Price $1,095—At Factory

30-35 horse-power—112-inch wheel base—tires 34x4—demountable rims—3 electric lights—2 or 5-passenger body. For $100 extra we equip with mohair top, side curtains and slip cover, windshield, Prest-o-lite gas tank for headlights, speedometer, self-starter, extra rim and brackets. Gray & Davis electric lighting and starting system at an extra price, if wanted.

How Balfour Missed the Maiden

ALEXANDER BALFOUR was born at the seat of his father, Lord Burleigh, near Kinross, in the year 1687, and in all Scotland there was no infant with fairer prospects. His father was a great man, there were great people among his uncles and cousins and aunts. Among his distinguished and powerful relatives were the Duke of Argyle and the Earl of Stair. So Alexander, as he grew up, a braw callant, dreamed dreams of glory.

In the fullness of time he went to the University of St. Andrew's, where he distinguished himself for intelligence and zeal. His teachers admired him so much they predicted great things for him, and said he would have been destined to greatness, even had he been born a plebeian. Then one day the university shut down for a brief season, and Aleck went home for a vacation. And, having reached his ancestral hall, the first thing he did was to fall in love with Anne Robertson, the governess of his little sisters. The chroniclers say that Anne was passing fair, and as wise as a serpent.

"Very calmly Alexander Balfour aimed pistol and fired."

She tried to discourage Aleck's infatuation. She handed him the ice tongs in every way she could, but the young man was determined to marry her.

Then his father, old Lord Burleigh, got wise to what was going on and put in his oar. He discharged Miss Robertson and told his son to pack up his traps and take a tour abroad, staying away until summoned home. This was a standard antidote for love sickness in those days. Foreign travel was a cure for many ills which now are reached by patent medicines. Alexander went away, imagining himself broken hearted. But he wrote a letter to Miss Robertson, telling her not to marry before his return. If she did so, he would make it his business to kill her husband. Then the young man sailed away to foreign parts, and the months rolled on, and eventually a Mr. Syme came wooing Miss Robertson, and found favor in her eyes.

She went with him to the altar, and the twain settled down to live happy ever after. Alexander's threat caused no uneasiness in Anne's gentle bosom. Doubtless the young man had forgotten her by this time. The threats of lovelorn springalds are as idle as the winds. So the months kept rolling along, and it came to pass that one day Anne was seated by a window nursing her first born, and a shadow fell upon her. Looking up she found herself face to face with Alexander Balfour. There was murder in his eyes. She read his fell intention at a glance, and shrieked. Her husband, who was in a back room, rushed to her side to see what distressed her. Very calmly Alexander Balfour aimed a pistol and fired, and Syme fell dead.

Then was Balfour taken to a jail, and shortly afterwards he was tried, and sentenced to death. All the power and pull of his influential relatives could not avail him in this evil case. There came an evening when he knew that the next sunrise would be the last he'd ever see. From the barred window of his dungeon he could see the instrument of death, the maiden, which had been erected that afternoon by whistling workmen. It stood upon a knoll, so that the plain people would be able to see every detail of his execution.

The maiden was the ancestor of the guillotine. The inventor of the latter, whose name has become immortal, was a mere plagiarist. Every salient feature of his machine was embodied in the maiden. This admirable contrivance was introduced in Scotland by the regent Morton, who encouraged labor-saving devices of every kind. Morton, who was the most unpopular man in his kingdom, had the satisfaction of being beheaded by the machine he so greatly admired.

The maiden consisted of two uprights with grooves down the inside. In these grooves there slid a heavy axe, weighted with lead. There was a cross bar four feet from the ground, and upon this the patient laid his head at the direction of the urbane executioner. Then another crossbar descended upon his head and held it down. Everything being in readiness for the operation, the executioner requested the patient to look pleasant, please, pulled a cord, and the axe descended. There never was any botched work with this machine, as often happened when the headsman swung an axe by hand. The maiden was largely used in the agricultural districts, where the stealing of live stock was a popular diversion. When the thieves were convicted and brought to execution, a touch of poetic justice made their end seem more pleasant. If the condemned had stolen a horse, the cord which released the axe was pulled by that animal; if a cow or a sheep, a cow or a sheep sent him into eternity.

It was upon this ghastly machine that Alexander Balfour was looking when the sun went down, and there was despair in his face when he turned away from the window—and confronted his sister Jennie. She had her finger on her lips, warning him to be silent. She whispered that she had come to save him. They were much of a size, and in a little while Alexander was wearing his sister's dress and bonnet, and she was blushing in his unaccustomed raiment. The Burleigh pull was of no avail in Alexander's emergency, but it seems probable that the Burleigh money was not so futile. For everything moved like greased clockwork. The sister remained in the dungeon, and the brother walked out of the prison, turnkeys and jailors paying no attention to him whatever. In a bosky dell not far away he found a fleet horse, all saddled and bridled, with money and weapons convenient to his hand. So he sped away, and gained a foreign shore.

Even at this distance of time one must sympathize with the unfortunate executioner when he arrived on the knoll next morning, and found there was nobody to execute. He had looked forward to this affair as the crowning achievement of his career. Perhaps he figured on taking the lecture platform or making a tour of the Chautauquas and all his hopes were shattered at one blow. So he had to take his little old maiden away and maybe he used it for slicing turnips for the cows.

Lord Burleigh and the various dukes and lairds and other great relatives of the escaped murderer never wearied of working for a pardon for Alexander, and when Queen Anne came to the throne she was induced to extend clemency to him, and he returned to his ancestral halls and lived there in opulence and honor for fifty years. His story is a familiar tale throughout Scotland, but nobody seems to know what became of poor widowed Anne Robertson Syme.

A university professor says the best way to deal with profanity is to remove its cause. University professors among them?

So far as the present is concerned, at least, Governor Hi. Johnson probably can lay claim to having put the frisk in Frisco.

IN The WORLD OF WOMEN

The exhibition given by Miss Lindaaf-Hageby in making a nineteen hours speech in the London law courts, conducting her own case and cross examining witnesses, has already brought many supporters in the house of commons for the bill introduced by Viscount Wolmer to remove all sex disabilities in the practice of the legal profession. Its enactment would enable women to be called to the bar and practice as advocates or to be enrolled as solicitors and discharge all the duties that fall to the lower branch of the profession.

The formation of the first college for women in China (at Chentu in western China) is a matter of world wide interest. The new institution owes its inception largely to the influence of the American, British and Canadian missions, which have fired the enthusiasm of the republicans, already anxious to promote the education of Chinese women.

Their Destination Uncertain.

She was hurriedly adjusting her veil, and had but a few moments in which to catch her ear. "Oh, dear," she murmured, "I can't find a pin anywhere. I wonder where all the pins go to, anyway?" "That's a difficult question to answer," replied her practical husband, who was standing by. "Because they are always pointed in one direction and headed in another."

Inspiration.

Wherever man has done well in the arts, the vision of some inspiring woman is behind his work. . . . famous and lovely women, long dead, whose kisses are imperishable in tone or pigment or tale; women who called to themselves for a little space the big-souled men of their time, and sent them away illustrious.—Will Levington Comfort.

Joseph Meets His Brethren. Gen. xlii.

Golden Text—Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Gal. vi:7.

(1.) Verses 1-6—How many of our troubles are there that we cannot end or mitigate by doing something?

(2.) Which is the worse calamity, to be paralyzed with fear by a great trouble, so that we only sit down and do nothing, or the trouble itself? Why?

(3.) Suppose Joseph's brethren had not sold him a slave into Egypt, how would God have protected that country against this great famine?

(4.) Was it better or worse for the world or the cause of God, or the men themselves, that Jacob's sons committed the cruel sin of selling their brother? Why?

(5.) If Joseph had not been reigning in Egypt but had remained in his own country, what would he probably have been doing there?

(6.) Verses 7-14—Why would you say or not that Joseph treated his brethren when he met them just as God wanted him?

(7.) Would you say or not, and why, that it is ever right to dissemble or act a lie or to say what you do not mean?

(8.) Why did Joseph act and speak roughly to his brethren?

(9.) What good results did Joseph's method of treating his brethren produce?

(10.) How were Joseph's dreams fulfilled?

(11.) Verses 15-20—Is Joseph's expression, "By the life of Pharaoh" an oath or, at any rate, is it such language that a Christian should imitate?

(12.)

(13.) Why does God so frequently "prove" or test his best beloved children with troubles before he gives them so signal blessing?

(14.) Verses 21-24—How would this event have the tendency to remind them of their cruelty in selling their brother Joseph into Egypt?

(15.) When sorrow for our sins comes only as a result of the dire trouble brought on us by our sins, may it or not be true repentance? Why?

(16.) What is the connection between conscience and memory as illustrated by this story?

(17.) What was Reuben's pleasant memory in connection with the selling of Joseph?

(18.) When is it not right to follow the promptings of a tender heart?

(19.) Verses 25-28—Would the fact that they found the money they paid for the corn in the mouth of each sack have troubled them so much but for their guilty consciences? Why?

(20.) Why is it that the average sinner thinks of God when he is in great trouble?

(21.) Verses 29-38—How did their report of their experiences in Egypt affect their father, Jacob, and what do you think of his decision not to let Benjamin go?

Lesson for Sunday, May 25, 1913. Joseph and Benjamin. Gen. xliii.

Awakening.

"You're looking mighty sour; what's the matter? Honeymoon over?" "I guess so." "How'd that happen?" "Oh, we were drifting along down life's enchanted stream, like the poet tells about, and just as I was thinking I should like to drift on and on with her forever, she up and told me that she has got to have some money."—Houston Post.

Knew Her Business

"This one may seem a little out of date," said a salesman in the fur department of a big store, "but it actually happened to me one day in the past winter. A woman walked up to the counter and said:

"'I'm looking for a muff.'

"'Yes, madam,' said I; 'what fur, please?'

"And she snapped back:

"'Well, to keep my hands warm, if it's any of your business.'"

Osculatory Aid from Grandpa

When little Bob bumped his head grandpa gathered the youngster in his arms and said:

"There! I'll kiss it, and the pain will all be gone."

Cheerfully smiling, the youngster exclaimed:

"Come down into the kitchtn, grandpa, the cook has the toothache."—Judge.

Help Unnecessary

Four year old Helen wished to get into the playroom, but the gate (which had been put in at the door to keep her baby brother in) was locked. She tried again and again to climb over it, when at last her mother heard her say: "Dear God, please help me get over this gate." Just then she tumbled over and said: "Never mind; I got over myself."—Harper's Magazine.

CHURCH NEWS

Students to Gather at Lake Mohonk.

The greatest gathering of Christian students the world ever saw is held at Lake Mohonk during the first eight days of June. Forty countries will be represented by three hundred delegates. Especially will the new influence of China and Japan be exerted, and for the first time Latin American, Indian and Negro students will be in the conference. The occasion is the World Student Christian Federation, which met last time at Constantinople, and which has held sessions at Oqford, England, at Versailles, in France, and in Tokio, Japan. Some of the greatest leaders, clergymen and laymen in European countries and in Christian mission fields of Asia will make up the number, and the conference being over will go to summer conferences in June and July held in New England, in the south, and as far west as the Pacific coast.

In universities in this and other countries the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. lead in Bible, mission and general Christian work. There is a student volunteer movement, aiming to enlist and train students for service in foreign mission fields. Into the Lake Mohonk conference this June the German theological attitude will project itself, and so will the French student attitude since the passage of the separation law. At the head of the conference and of the work in all lands is Dr. John R. Mott, whom President Wilson wanted to have quit Christian leadership for a time and take up a diplomatic post. Dr. Mott returns from a world tour in time to attend the conference.

Seminary Still at Outs with Church.

Union Theological Seminary, which has just made a statement of its theological position to the Presbyterian general assembly, now in session at Atlanta, does not really desire, it is said on high authority, to come again into official relations with the Presbyterian church or with any other. As a liberal and independent seminary it has just graduated the largest class in its history. They represent many religious bodies, as a strictly Presbyterian seminary could not hope to do, and come from many parts of the country, without the courtesy to other Presbyterian seminaries in other sections of the country that would have to be paid were it not independent.

Southern Baptists Meet at St. Louis.

The Southern Baptist convention, representing considerably more than 2,000,000 members, is now in session in St. Louis. The Northern Baptist convention, representing 2,500,000 members, meets in Detroit on May 21, to remain in session for eight days. This Detroit meeting marks the close of the first five years of the convention, a body formed for the purpose of co-ordinating and co-relating all Baptist effort. In this effort home and foreign missions are the largest single factor, although Baptist literature forms a much larger place in the work than in the economy of most religious bodies, the Methodist probably excepted. Recently Free Will Baptists united with the Baptist North, and unlike many unions it has proved a happy and successful merger.

Positively Not.

The reformed burglar, upon his release from jail, was inclined to be a bit facetious. "Simply state," he remarked to a reporter who chanced to be in the vicinity, "that under no circumstances will I be a candidate for another term." Proving that burglars, as well as comedy actors, have a sense of humor.—Judge.

Mistake Made by Early Man.

According to a German biologist, man made a mistake when, centuries ago, he changed himself from a quadruped to a biped, the contention being that many present-day ills are due to carrying the spine in an upright position when it was intended to be carried horizontally.

Slur on Philadelphia.

"A Philadelphia scientist on his way to the Hawaiian islands spent three months studying the habits, evolution and variations of tree snails." We do not believe that a Philadelphian can complete the job in three months, but it must be admitted that he will obtain some valuable hints on speed.—Boston Transcript.

Saving Electric Current.

Repeatedly interrupting the current for infinitesimal fractions of time, permitting the filament to cool but not interfering with the light as perceived by the human eye, a French electrician has invented a lamp which he claims uses but one two-hundredth of the current of ordinary lamps.

Speak of Good Things.

Let us speak only of the good things we know about our friends. Their faults will expose themselves without any help.

More Ethereal.

Lovers may quarrel, but they quarrel about such delightful topics as kisses, and not about house rent or the price of meat.

POEMS You Ought To Know

JUNE.

James Russell Lowell.

And what is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then heaven tries the earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly her warm ear lays;
Whether we look, or whether we listen,
We hear life murmur, or see it glisten;
Every clod feels a stir of might,
An instinct within it that reaches and towers,
And, groping blindly above it for light,
Climbs to a soul in grass and flowers;
The flush of life may well be seen
Thrilling back over hills and valleys;
The cowslip startles in meadow green,
The buttercup catches the sun in its chalice,
And there's never a leaf nor a blade too mean.
To be some happy creature's place;
The little bird sits at his door in the sun,
Atilt like a blossom among the leaves,
And lets his illumined being o'errun
With the deluge of summer it receives;
His mate feels the eggs beneath her wings,
And the heart in her dumb breast flutters and sings,
He sings to the wide world and she to her nest—
In the nice ear of nature, which song is the best?

Gamblers' Superstitions.

Gamblers are generally superstitious with regard to numbers. At Monte Carlo many players lay their stake on the number of their cloakroom tickets. The date of a birthday, the sum total of the number on a watch, and the figures on the top coin of a pile are also said to be considered lucky by many players, and the clergyman of the English church at Monte Carlo at one time never gave out any hymn under number 36, as he discovered that some of his congregation had made a practice of noting down the numbers with a view of backing them at roulette.

Spiders Used as Charms.

Spiders, like worms and snails, were formerly much used in charcures, and only a year or two since an English shopkeeper was startled by a request for "a nut to put a spider in to cure baby's whooping cough." The spider, according to an old-time prescription, was to be inclosed in a nut and suspended round the child's neck, the idea being that as the insect died the disease disappeared.

French Society Improving.

The latest fad in Paris, it is said, is to play cards in the boxes during a grand opera performance. This is not half so annoying as the habit some persons have of whistling or singing grand opera or other airs during a game of cards.

Good Work for the Veil.

"Veils are a foe to beauty," says a London physician. But in rendering your opinion do not overlook the fact that veils are also a friend to homeliness.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 17.—The stock market opened dull and heavy.

11 a. m.—Improvement, especially in the railroad list, occurred shortly after the opening of the market and continued to the end of the first hour.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit was strong on the belief that a larger dividend would be declared at the forthcoming meeting of directors.

St. Louis, Rock Island & San Francisco issues were not so strong as others in the general list, and the early advances were soon checked.

The stock market closed fairly strong.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, May 17.—Wheat, opening easier on lower Liverpool cables, encountered good support on the early dip, the pit traders taking the buying side and May went to 90c and July to 88¾c, holding those prices until the close.

The corn trade was nervous over light offerings today and reported larger shipments and options moved within a very narrow range. May was down ⅛c and July up ⅛c on the day's opening when the market closede.

Oats had a steady undertone. There was free selling by longs but an active demand that absorbed the offerings and prices closed about steady, with May down only a fraction.

The provision trade was very quiet, but firm on steady prices at the yards.

BADGERS LOSE IN ILLINI DUAL MEET

CHAMGAIGN, Ill., May 17.—Dual track meet honors of the conference were assured for Illinois today when the Illini defeated Wisconsin by a score of 72 to 52, after a closely contested meet.

The features were Bullard's win of the two mile and the feat of Captain Case in the hurdles, the Illini star establishing a new local mark of :25 in the low barriers. Illini broad jumpers cleaned up a clam. Barger's first place victors were Gold in the pole vault, Van Gent in the shotput, Wahl in the high lump and Butler in the hammer throw.

"Tubby" Keeler of La Crosse took second in the shotput and third in the hammer throw.

To Stop Cramp in the Leg.

To those who suffer from cramp in the leg at night, the following may be useful: When the cramp comes on take a good long string—a long garter will do—wind it round the leg over the place that is affected, and take the end in each hand and give it a sharp pull—one that will cause a little pain. Instantly the cramp will depart, and the sufferer can return to bed assured it will not come on again that night.—Health.

SUNNY WEATHER FOR CHANCE DAY

CHICAGO, May 17.—The sun today gave the lie to the weather sharps who had predicted rain and Frank Chance, New York Yankee manager, due to be honored by his former fellow townsmen, President Comiskey of the White Sox, due to reap a harvest of shekels, and thousands of baseball bugs were happy.

"I want to make one little bet," said Comiskey, before the bands began to tune up for this afternoon's parade. "This will be the biggest crowd this afternoon that ever turned out to tell one ball player what they thought of him—and it may turn out to be the greatest crowd that ever saw a game."

Oldtime Perfumes.

Perfumes were in common use in the ancient world, but views have changed as to the pleasantness of various odors. The smell of aloes is now considered disagreeable by the majority of people, but in the old days aloes, both as solid extract and as wood, formed a staple perfume or aromatic. Saffron, moreover, was a most popular perfume with the Romans, and was much in favor in England until about the sixteenth century.

TRAINS FOR KLAUS

CHICAGO, May 17.—Eddie McGoorty, Oshkosh middleweight, start training today for his bout one week from tonight with Frank Klaus in Pittsburg.

Going Down.

"This high cost of living problem is getting to be something terrible," observed Mrs. Nutley. "Everything is getting higher." "Oh, I don't know," replied her husband, soothingly. "There's your opinion of me, for instance, and my opinion of you, and our mutual opinion of our neighbors, and the neighbors' opinion of both of us."

Take Care of the First Teeth.

If you have the health and beauty of your child at heart, pay particular attention to the teeth. Decayed and aching teeth worry the child, making it nervous and disagreeable. The germs harbored in decayed teeth are responsible for many diseases. Have the first teeth well taken care of to insure a healthy, regular second set.

Easy Marks.

Some men haven't any more caution when they happen to get a little money, than to show it to the family.—New York Press.

BATTING WINS FOR M'GRAW'S GIANTS

Fletcher and Merkle Cop Game with Mathewson Pitching Out of Form

KONEY SLAMS ANOTHER HOMER

Wheat, Cutshaw and Big Train Slam Out Circuit Hits in Brooklyn Game

NATIONAL LEAGUE
New York, 7; Pittsburg, 4

NEW YORK, May 17.—The batting of Fletcher and Merkle, coupled with the errors made by Kelly, gave the Giants yesterday's game with Pittsburg, 7 to 4. Mathewson pitched the entire game for the locals but was not in his usual form. He was rapped for eleven hits, walked one man and made a wild pitch. Score:

	R	H	E
Pittsburg ..100000030	4	12	6
New York 32011000x	7	11	0

Batteries: O'Toole, Cooper, Camnitz and Kelly; Mathewson, Meyers and Hartley.

Philadelphia, 10; Chicago, 4

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—Five slaps from Toney in the front inning yielded three runs and put the Phillies on Easy avenue. Another upheaval on Toney's part in the seventh inning yielded five runs. The final count was: Philadelphia, 10; Chicago, 4 Score:

	R	H	E
Chicago . ..000000022	4	11	3
Philadelphia .30001150x	10	14	1

Batteries: Toney and Archer; Rixey and Killifer.

Brooklyn, 6; St. Louis, 5

BROOKLYN, May 17.—The daily quota of home runs was credited to Wheat, Cutshaw and Konetchy in yesterday's game between the Dodgers and St. Louis, which the locals won, 6 to 5. Score:

	R	H	E
St. Louis 300000002	5	12	1
Brooklyn 02120100x	6	14	3

Batteries: Sallee, Willis, Geyer and Wingo; Curtis and Miller.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Chicago, 7; New York, 0

CHICAGO, May 17.—The White Sox won an easy game from the Highlanders at the south side park yesterday afternoon 7 to 0. Joe Benz allowed the Gothamites only three hits. Manager Chance selected McConnell to open the contest, but he was yanked out after allowing five runs in six innings. Score:

	R	H	E
New York 000000000	0	3	3
Chicago 10301011x	7	9	3

Batteries: McConnell, Clarke and Sweeney; Benz and Schalk.

Philadelphia, 8; Cleveland, 5

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 17.—The Naps tossed yesterday's game to the Athletics 8 to 5 by poor base running. Score:

	R	H	E
Philadelphia . 022100201	8	14	1
Cleveland . ..300010001	5	13	4

Batteries: Brown, Houck, Bender and Thomas; Gregg, Mitchell and Carisch.

Boston, 3; St. Louis, 2

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—The Browns again lost to the Red Sox yesterday 3 to 2. Hooper in the fifth inning with two on bases hit a home run into the right field stands, giving Boston all the runs they scored. Score:

	R	H	E
Boston 000030000	3	8	0
St. Louis 020000000	2	8	0

Batteries: Collins and Carrigan; Baumgardner and Agnew.

Detroit, 5; Washington, 2

DETROIT, Mich., May 17.—Detroit took a sharply played game from Washington 5 to 2. The feature was Dubuc's hoisting the ball over the score board for a homer in the eighth chapter. Jean is the third Tiger to accomplish this feat. Score:

	R	H	E
Washington . 101000000	2	7	0
Detroit 000102020	5	9	2

Batteries: Hughes, Droban, Henry and Ainsmith; Dubuc and Rondeau.

Maybe They Were.

Little Clara has a habit of sticking her feet out of the bed covers. One hot night, on being told not to do so, she obeyed in silence for a little while and then suddenly said, "Oh, mamma, let me put my feet out! They're choking."

Watching The Scoreboard

Matty just breezed along with the Pirates' high priced battery, O'Toole and Kelly, defeating them 7 to 4. He gave a base on balls in the third, which was his first in forty-nine innings.

The Naps packed the bases with none out against the Athletics in the seventh inning, but the sacks were cleared without a run getting across when the Nap coachers got mixed up and the Athletics pulled a triple play.

Crawford helped out some when the Tigers downed Washington by getting three hits in four times up. Cobb went hitless.

Two singles followed by Hooper's home run scored the only runs the Red Sox got off Baumgardner. A home run, triple and single in one inning scored the Browns' pair, but it was not enough.

It was a good joke when the White Sox beat Frank Chance's crew on their first appearance in town, but twice in the same place, isn't so funny. Maybe the Sox will take on a little of the Chance day spirit, today.

Brooklyn and the Phillies continue to run in circuits. Wheaton got a double and home run yesterday, Cutshaw a single and homer, and Daubert two singles and a triple, just to show that the Dodgers have some real batters.

In the meantime the Phillies took the Cubs into camp. Space is always reserved for Murphy to make that amendment.

BED SHATTERED OCCUPANTS SAFE

PLAINVIEW, Minn., May 17. — The bed in which Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith were sleeping Thursday night was torn into fragments when lightning struck their house and damaged much of the furniture. The couple escaped death, but were severely shocked.

GIANT PLAYER QUITS

NEW YORK, May 17.—Arthur Shafer, McGraw's outfielder, is missing. He packed his belongings yesterday and disappeared, and it is believed he has gone back to his California home. McGraw has suspended him indefinitely but he says he has no knowledge of why the player has thrown up his job.

CUBAN FLIES SEA

HAVANA, May 17.—Domingo Rosillo, using an aeroplane without floats, won the $10,000 aviation races from Key West to Havana. Augustin Parla, his only opponent, in a hydroplane, fell shortly after the start at 5 p. m., and was picked up by a Cuban gunboat. He was unhurt.

O. K. HEDDING BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 17. — The Hedding bill providing for a state athletic commission to regulate boxing bouts, was reported in both houses today by the finance committees with the recommendation that it pass.

Unique Symbol on Gravestone.

The gravestone between Kennebunsport and Cape Porpoise of one Tristram Tapley exhibits an uncommon and yet most sensible idea. Affixed to the stone in a silver case is inclosed an old-fashioned daguerreotype of the young man, portected from the elements by a cover. One with such a name ought certainly to have been a lover of books.

Currant Growing a Greek Monopoly.

Many efforts have been made to grow so-called Greek currants in other countries, but always without success, and these very small, very sweet and seedless grapes continue to be a monopoly of certain districts in Greece, where they constitute the chief agricultural industry. The yield in an average year is about 160,000 tons.

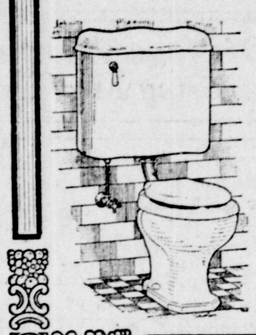

Trees "Shot to Death."

For literally shooting trees to death a pistol has been invented in England that fires into their limbs steel bolts that tear out the living cores.

MRS. RENTER REPORTS

"Bob, you should have been with me today, it is certainly an experience to go house hunting."

"All the houses I inspected had good plumbing; it seems that people are giving a lot of attention to plumbing now-a-days. One house pleased me more than any of the others and the bathroom seemed perfect, but I was just a little curious and pushed the button on the closet tank and was so disappointed. The tank emptied so noisily that to me the entire beauty of the bathroom was marred by that one imperfection. Tomorrow I'm going after the house with the ideal bathroom."

Had a Good Start.

"Plimson is living ahead of his income." "You are right. If Plimson were to stand still for five years, I don't believe his income would overtake him."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Best Test of Man.

The keenest test of a man comes when he has attained; the struggle to attain keeps him strong, but the time of least resistance soon shows itself in success.—Hugh Black.
